Second Chance To Register In City Tuesday

Registration Officials To Be At Polling Places In City Tomorrow

EXPECT BIG RUSH TO GET UNDER WAY

September 12 Will Be Final Chance For Voters Of City To Enroll

New Castle voters get their second chance to register on Tuesday, September 1, which is tomorrow, just two weeks away from the primary electioin. In every polling place in the 34 precincts of the city registrars will sit for the purpose of registering those desirous of qualifying themselves to vote.

The registry booths will open at eight o'clock Daylight Savings Time and will remain open until ten o'clock. The booths will be closed until twelve noon and will reopen from that time until three in the afternoon. They close again until five o'clock and reopen then, to remain open until eleven o'clock.

County Tax Receipt

In order to register it is necessary to have a county tax receipt issued in the two years last past. This means that you can register on your county tax receipt or on one issued after November 3, 1929. City or school tax receipts are of no value in registering, they must be county tax receipts.

Tuesday, September 1, is the second of the three registry days. Failure to register on either of the three days forfeits your right to vote in the primary. Unless you register for the primary unless you were sick or out of the city on each of the three days. September 12 is the last registry day.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

A worthwhile suggestion is made to Pa Newc regarding both the conversation of the bounteous crops of fruits and vegetables, which are resulting in large unused surpluses and the providing of food supplies to be dispensed during the coming winter months to the needy. And that is the old time method of drying appless, all kinds of fruits, corn and all kinds of vegetables, even tomotoes. The only thing required is the effort expended in drying these foodstuffs, no sugar or other materials being required to save the surplus foods, which will prove mighty good eating when needed.

Apparently there is no way to prevent gravel surfaced roads from effecting the washboard surface. Hazlecroft avenue, through Neshannock township, from the city line to Wilmington avenue, presents an example of what a few week's traffic over a road will do in this respect.

Tomorrow, (Tuesday) is the second day for New Castle citizens to register. Following the discovery of the heavy registration on the first day in several of the city precincts, there is evidence that there will be a rush of citizens to register in the other precincts on Tuesday.

Farm Hand Captures Alleged Chicken Thief

Peter Giadosh is in the county jail charged with the theft of chickens on the Perry farm near Portersville following the prompt action of a farm hand on Saturday.

The farm hand was asleep in a haymow when he heard the chickens cackling wildly. Running down he saw three men leaving, one of them with a sack full of chickens in his hand.

Picking up a club, the farm hand chased the men, and catching up with one of them, laid him low with a wallop over the head. Getting ropes, he trussed the man up like a fowl and then called for Constable George Burrows. Giadosh was arraigned before Squire Van Gorder and is in the county jail on a charge of chicken theft.

NINE LAWRENCE COUNTY ROADS TO BE IMPROVED

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—Lawrence county's share of the State Highway Department's rural road program for this year is 16.92 miles.

Nine separate projects have been listed for improvement.

These roads are not part of the 20,000 miles of township highway that became part of the state system on August 15. The department is building them to provide for an "all-weather" surface not to cost in excess of $6000 a mile.

The Lawrence county roads are:

1- In Neshannock, Union and Mahoning townships between Walmo and Edinburg, 3.2 miles.

2- In Hickory township between Lakewood Park and East Brook, 1 mile.

3- In Slippery Rock township between Frews Cross Roads and Mountville Church, 2 miles to the Perry township line.

4- In Plaingrove township between McKees School and Mercer county line, .9 mile.

5- In Pulaski township between New Bedford and Mercer county line, 1.9 miles.

6- In North Beaver township between Mt. Jackson and the Ohio state line, 3.1 miles.

7- In Big Beaver township near McAnlis School toward Moravia, 1 mile.

8- In Neshannock township west from Walmo 1.32 miles.

9- Wilmington township between Vance Cross Roads to Shepards School, 2.5 miles.

County Schools Open For Term

Part Of County Schools Resume Fall Sessions This Morning

REMAINDER WILL START WITHIN WEEK

Summer is over for many of the country schools today, the school term starting at nine o'clock this morning. Approximately half of the schools in the county districts went back to work, others will start September 1 and the balance will start on September 8.

This year County Superintendent J. C. Syling starts his school term with a full complement of teachers. An interesting commentary upon the calibre of teachers in the county this year is that 91 percent of the 309 teachers are normal graduates or better, that is 91 percent of them have not less than a diploma from a normal school or are graduates of four year colleges or universities. A number of them have gone farther and have their Master's degrees.

Few Partial Certificates

Few of them have partial certificates, only about 8 in fact. This is an improvement over last year when 52 teachers were working on partial certificates, 51 of them were college graduates, 122 normal graduates and 79 taught on standard certificates.

Twenty five years ago there were many teachers who went into the profession direct from the eighth grade. Some went as far as high school and few had normal certificates. Today this has been materially changed, and Lawrence county stands out among the counties of the stae as being one of the few nearly 100 per cent counties in the state that have their teachers properly qualified.

CHILDREN AT PLAY ARE IMPERILLED

Several Important Gangster Arrests Made By New York Detectives

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Extortionists were blamed today for the wounding of an 18-year-old girl, as two gangsters poured bullets into a Brooklyn street crowded with children.

The gangsters missed their intended victim but Jennie Ballantino, 18, was struck on the arm as she stood talking to friends on a street corner.

Police said the six or eight shots fired were intended for Joseph Santora, 45, a boss stevedore and longshoreman and the father of 12 children. He had reported to police Saturday that two men had attempted to extort money from him.

Santora was found running from the scene and police said he had been standing in range of the gunmen. The bullets whizzed past him and struck the girl a block away.

Scores At Play

Scores of children, playing in the street, ran to safety as the shooting started. More than 150 children saw the gangsters drive through the street in an automobiles and open fire. They escaped without pursuit.

Young New York Doctor Murdered In His Apartment

LOUD RADIO NOISE COVERS UP CRIME

Police Believe Doctor Was Tortured Before Being Killed—Face Is Bruised

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—With his hands lashed behind his back with a handkerchief, Dr. William R. Hurst, 30, was found murdered in his apartment today.

He had been tortured before he died. On his cheek were the marks of bruises. Cause of his death has not been announced by the medical examiner.

Apartment in Disorder.

The doctor was clad only in his pajamas when his body was found slumped on a settee in the living room. The apartment on West 58th street had been ransacked and was in complete disorder.

It was the blaring of the radio, evidently turned on by the killer in order that the doctor's screams might not be overheard, that led today to the discovery of the body.

All afternoon and all night the loud speaker howled discordantly. Annoyed neighbors finally complained to the superintendent, who entered the apartment nad discovered the body.

Expert Says Bluebeard Is Normal And Sane

By LOUIS MILLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31—Harry F. Powers, West Virginia Bluebeard who invested in matrimony and murder and drew blood money dividends, is "normal and shrewd" according to Dr. Edward E. Mayer, University of Pittsburgh psychiatrist.

Dr. Mayer, who gained fame when he probed the mental recesses of Harry Thaw after the murder of Stanford White, spent two hours alone with Powers—"Connie Pierson" to scores of "lonely ladies."—in his jail cell at Clarksburg.

"From this man's confession to these horrible killings, it is evident he is nothing more than a farmer

Three Women Thankful Pierson Was Arrested; Had Dates To Meet Him

Mail-Order Bluebeard Held For Five Deaths, Planned Several More "Dates"

Victims In Olean, Detroit And Hagerstown, Md., Reveal Romeo's Letters

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Two women and perhaps a third today appeared to have had narrow escapes from the wiles of Cornelius Pierson, mail-order bluebeard, who dipped his pen in blood.

He had a system—scientifically kept files plus a code—which lay behind the synthetic love epistles with which he courted hundred of romance-struck women.

Dates Unfilled

The very day—August 27—on which Pierson was arrested for the slaughter of Mrs. Dorothy Lempke, Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children; Miss Virginia Bell, of Hagerstown, Md., "had a date" to go riding with him.

And Mrs. Bessie G. Storrs, of Olean, N. Y., was due to meet the correspondence school romeo today.

Mrs. Edith D. Simpson, of Detroit, wrote warmly of wanting to meet Pierson.

"I know by your letters you are a real man and a gentleman she wrote in a letter mailed August 24, "I love you for your frankness and the mind of such beautiful thoughts."

Miss Bell wrote in a letter dated August 23:

"I hope that August 27 will always be a red letter day for us."

Mrs. Storrs wrote on August 24:

"I am so happy—I will soon be living in a new world with you." (Signed) "Kisses Love—Bessie."

How did this fish-eyed, flabby-faced Pierson with the heart of a fiend do it?

Code Discovered

The code—discovered by Internatioinal News Service among the effects of the love butcher—apparently provided the key to his success.

Through an ingenious bookkeeping system, Pierson segregated var-

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

None Seriously Hurt When Cars Meet "Head On" Sunday Afternoon

Five persons were injured, none seriously, however, when two automobiles collided "head-on", Sunday immediately outside the city on the New Castle-New Bedford highway. All received attention at the Jameson Memorial hospital. One of the injured was kept all night, but discharged this morning.

The injured:

Mrs. Fannie Fullwood, 22, 1017 Pollock avenue; lacerations.

George Fullwood Jr., two, 1107 Pollock avenue; lacerations.

Mrs. Nettie Logan, 50, 1710 Hamilton street; lacerations.

Mrs. Esther Wolford, 29, 1710 Hamilton street; lacerations.

Grace Wolford, four, 1710 Hamilton street; bruises and abrasions.

According to a report gathered by the state highway patrol here, the Wolford machine attempted to pass another machine operating toward New Bedford and collided "head-on" with a car drivin by L. M. Shields, 714 Blaine street.

The injured were removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital and after receiving treatment all were discharged excepting George Fullwood Jr., two, who remained at the hospital for observation. He was discharged this morning.

The crash occurred about 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

CHURCH TO OBSERVE 125th ANNIVERSARY

Neshannock U. P. Congregation To Observe Anniversary September 10

Expect Many Former Members To Return For Notable Celebration

Thursday, September 10, will mark the 125th anniversary of the Neshannock U. P. church, of which Rev. J. Walker St. Clair is pastor, and on that date a program of special services befitting the occasion will be carried out. The church is located two miles east of the city on the Harlansburg road.

The institution began as a Reformed Presbyterian church, but in the year of 1838 there was a division in the Reformed Presbyterian—part of the congregation going to a new school and the remainder to an old school. Those organizing the present Neshannock church were of the new school.

In 1869 the congregation passed into the United Presbyterian church continuing in this denomination to the present date and were in the Mercer presbytery.

Authorities Say Murder Of Two Women And Three Children Admitted

DECLARES NO MORE VICTIMS BURIED

Gruesome Story Told To Authorities By Accused Butcherer Of Five

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—"Anybody who would commit such a crime is insane," today declared Cornelius Pierson, love racketeer, charged with the murder of five persons.

Pierson, insisting he made no confession, made this statement to Rev. T. E. Gainer, Baptist minister and his spiritual adviser.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31. — Although Cornelius Pierson, the cowfaced wholesale butcherer of two widows and three children insisted he had not killed any more mail-order wives, authorities began dragging the creek beside his slaughter-house garage today.

A chain gang of convicts also continued digging into the graveyard trench beside the garage where Pierson confessed he corraled his five victims and strangled them one after another.

Declares All Have Been Found.

"They can dig if they want to but that's all there was at that place," said Pierson, who lived with his wife and sister-in-law six miles from his carefully constructed murder garage under the name of Harry Powers.

Authorities frankly doubted the blandly told story of "Slaughter-House Harry" that he herded his victims into the subterranean chamber beneath the garage and killed them all at once. He had built his abattoir with four separate rooms below the ground level and it was there he composed his sugary love

Report Says Over 200,000 Flood Victims

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—Tales of suffering and devastation continued to reach this city today from Yangchow, where more than 200,000 persons were reported to have been drowned when the typhoon of last week caused fifteen sections of the Grand Canal to break.

Hundreds of square miles were said to have been flooded and more than 6,000,000 were reported homeless.

A half million were said to be destitute.

When the air gets cool and the nights are chill and the school bells begin to tinkle, it's then that the autumn is on its way, it"s then that we get an inkle of golden mornings and copper noons and nights with a tang and a bite, and it's then that we hustle for woolen duds and blankets to wear at night. And today you can feel that the autumn is near and the summer going away, for the school bell rang in the country yard, it's seventy seven today.

Need Permit To Carry Revolver

New State Law Becomes Effective On September First

SHERIFF-POLICE CHIEF TO ISSUE PERMITS

Following the provisions of the Witkin firearms act it will be necessary to get permits on and after Tuesday, Sept. 1, to carry a revolver. This act, however, does not apply to enforcement officers such as policemen, county detectives, constables and the like, nor to members of the army, navy, marine corps or National guard, nor to agents, messengers and other employees of common carriers, banks and business firms whose duties require firearms to protect money or valuables.

For several days the sheriff and the chief of police have been deluged with requests from people who want licenses to carry revolvers. Some of them do not need permits, among them persons coming under the classification above.

Blanks Ready

It is expected that the blanks will be ready for distribution by tomorrow in the sheriff's office and in the office of the chief of police. The applications for licenses must be investigated and only persons who are of good character and have a legal necessity to carry firearms.

Hunting guns such as rifles and shotguns do not come under the provisions of the law, but sawed-off shotguns do. All dealers must have a permit before than can sell or display firearms, nor can the dealer deliver a gun to a purchaser for 48 hours after the sale is made, in order that an investigation can be made.

No person under 18 years of age, drug addicts or habitual drunkards can purchase firearms legally. Records of all purchases must be kept by the authorities and the secretary of the commonwealth. The act also prohibits pawn brokers from making loans on firearms.

Any citizen who feels that he has a reason for carrying a gun, who is of good reputation, can secure such a permit from either the chief of police or the sheriff on and after Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Still, it might be worse. Nobody has yet attempted to roll a peanut to the North Pole.

The late summer adds its quota of flowers to the attractiveness of rock gardens and yards and that of Daniel Maddocks, Boyles avenue, is unusually attractive at this time. They have a flower that is not found any place else in town, but the botanical name of it is not known to them. It is especially pleasing to the eye in the the late summer and early fall as the leaves are a beautiful shade of red and as the plant grows higher the center leaves come out a beautiful rose color.

New Castle boys and girls can feel elated that they do not live in Pittsburgh. The schools there start their fall term tomorrow. Some of the county schools are starting this week but the local pupils will not have to report until next week Wednesday.

Pa Newc was talking to a gentleman just back from Baltimore, Md., and among the things that interested Pa were—watermelons are being sold along the wharf for five cents each, just to get rid of them, and three freighters of bananas were dumped into the bay while the local man looked on. There was no market for them. Pa Newc could have made good use of at least a dozen of those and a couple watermelons.

Rejected Suitor Kills Girl And Commits Suicide

Double Funeral Services Today At Halifax, Pa., For Young Couple

PICNIC ENDS IN FATAL SHOOTING

(International News Service)

HALIFAX, Pa., Aug. 31.—Double funeral services today were arranged for 17-year-old Hazel Shomper, shot and killed by her rejected suitor, Charles Kinsinger, 29, who then committed suicide.

Hazel attended a picnic Saturday with other members of the Kinsinger family to whose home she later returned. Kinsinger asked her to return to the picnic grounds with him but she refused.

The couple retired to a yard in the rear of the Kinsinger home to continue their quarrel. Two shots rang out and the girl toppled to the ground.

Father Grabs Gun.

Peter Kinsinger ran to the yard and attempted to snatch the revolver from his son's hand. He succeeded, but Charles ran into the house, secured a rifle, and then shot himself through the head.

Members of both families told Deputy Coroner Dr. Harry Walmer that two months ago Hazel wrote Kinsinger a letter asking him to cease his attentions and "remain just a friend."

According to relatives of the dead man he declared at the time that "if I can't have her no one will."

Mrs. W. L. Cosel Appears Before Service Group At Luncheon Today

Speaking before the Rotary club of the city today, meeting at The Castleton, Mrs. William L. Cosel, chairman of the Department of International Relations of the New Castle Woman's club, sounded a stirring plea for Rotarians and the public in general to concentrate their interests on the coming international disarmament conference at London, scheduled for February.

"The Next Step in the Peace Movement" was Mrs. Cosel's theme. She forecasted the London meeting of delegates of all nations would be a definite step toward a drastic reduction in armaments.

The ardent peace talk was well presented and the Rotarians listened attentively.

During the meeting today the club voted to dispense with its meeting next Monday, Labor day.

Guests of the club included Elmer Connors, Ellwood City, and Charles Pasavant, Zelienople.

rooms were Mr. McQuiddy's assistants, members of the labor organizations who are also unemployed. They are giving freely of their time for the registration work.

At noon when the first halt in activity came, Chairman McQuiddy announced that 376 men from the city wards and township districts had passed through the office, registering their names as those unemployed. Each filled out a special form prepared especially for the registration.

Want To Dig Coal

Of the 376 who had signed cards fully 90 per cent applied to mine coal at the county-operated coal strip in the Croton district, it was said.

The unemployment check and the handling of coal digging applications is progressing hand in hand. While applications to dig were submitted today it was said that no permits would be distributed to those applying until about noon tomorrow.

County Poor Relief Administrator M. B. Hogue will first pass upon the applications which Mr. McQuiddy will place before him today, and permits will be handed out tomorrow.

Assisting in the work at the Trades and Labor office today were Alin Heckathorn, John Urban, W. J. Frazier, S. W. Freed and Claude Hoover.

Ask Public's Aid

General Chairman McQuiddy's statement at the close of the office today at noon follows:

"Starting Wednesday, Sept. 3, many men will begin digging their winter's supply of coal on the land of the New Castle Mining & Clay Products Co., and the Lehigh Portland Cement Co., through the arrangements made between Mr. M. B. Hogue, the County Poor Director, Charles H. Andrews of the Clay Products Co., and W. H. Kleckner of the Cement Co. Assisting in this work is labor's unemployed committee.

"A careful check through the applications of these men disclose the fact that for the most part they have been unemployed for a long time, and those that have any work at all in the past year has been only of temporary nature. They are showing a fine true spirit of trying to aid themselves, and it will lessen the burden of relief necessary this winter.

"Now, what a chance for some public spirited citizens or organization to assist in this work by providing a good bucket of hot soup or stew at noon for these worthy men and thereby lessen their burdens. Where could you find a more worthy cause or a more direct relief to assist in.

"Another public service that could be made use of is some form of transportation from various points in the city. A number of these men could be picked up and taken out to this work. As a suggestion, have men come to the Croton avenue end of the North street bridge between 7 and 8 a. m. and have some trucks or busses pick them up and take them out to the end of the pavement. These vehicles could make 3 to 4 trips during this hour and take care of a large number of men with only a small cost to the donator."

The unemployed registration will continue again tomorrow between the hours of 9 and 12 and 1 to 4. Members of the sponsoring committee of both the Trades and Labor Assembly and Building Trades Council were announced as follows:

Representing the Trades and Labor Assembly, William Haney, chairman; Fird Seamans and Norman Freeborn; representing the Building Trades Council, J. K. McQuiddy, chairman; Samuel W. Freed and Alva C. Glitch.

Coll, wanted for questioning in the recent Harlem baby shootings, is hiding on the East Side here, Soricelli said.

Police said Wolfsohn had admitted members of his gang lined up three men against a wall in Brooklyn recently and shot them.

Remains Of Mrs. Asta Eicher To Be Cremated At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—The body of Mrs. Asta Eicher of Park Ridge, Ill., murder victim of Harry Pierson, mail-order Romeo will be shipped to Pittsburgh for cremation.

Her ashes will then be interred in the Eicher family plot at Park Ridge cemetery next to her husband's remains.

The only known relative of Mrs. Eicher is an 87-year-old uncle, C Nelson of 3308 Franklin street, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Dorothy Lempke of Northboro, Mass., one of the five victims of Harry Pierson, mail-order Bluebeard, had the matrimonial agency habit.

Over a period of three years she conducted an impassioned correspondence with an "A. C. Morris" whom she met through a marriage market advertisement.

Morris wrote most of his letters on stationery of the Bancroft hotel in Worcester, Mass., to Mrs. Lempke who also lived in that city at the time.

At first, authorities considered that Morris might be an alias of Pierson but closer comparison of the handwriting of the two today caused this theory to be discarded.

The three continued on their way after the mishap and attended a dance, but later the same evening the injured trooper was taken to the hospital. X-ray pictures did not show broken bones.

DO NOT

It is becoming more and more the custom when neighbors want to show their kindness at the time of bereavement in the family of some of their dear friends, to offer the use of their car the day of the funeral. This is a very fine spirit and is a saving to the family in trouble, as well as being a way of showing the kindness of the neighbor offering the car.

When this car has been accepted by the family and you bring same to the funeral home, DO NOT drive it off on some side street until after the funeral is over, then attempt to find where your car belongs in the funeral party, but go directly to the funeral director in charge, tell him your name, make of the car, number of license, that he may give you the proper number, which will save a lot of confusion.

A GREAT MONTH

FOR three things most folks the grateful to the month of September. They are fall, football and oysters.

There is an axiom that oysters are in season in the eight months of the year having the letter "R" in their names. We are not informed whether there is an affinity between these months and oysters because the letter "R" is also in the word oyster or it is just a coincidence. Neither do we know the discoverer of the circumstances and the author of the axiom. However, it is neither axiom nor secret that we are glad September has an "R" somewhere among her nine letters and we are not particular in what style the first oysters are served.

To September also we are indebted for fair autumn. Where the summer is hot and the winter cold there is no season quite so delightful as autumn. It is without the extremes of temperature, is comfortably warm at day and somniferously cool at night, is an aid to efficient work and an irresistible urged to recreation. In all it is a season in which to live to the utmost.

Thirdly, September hears the first thud of the pigskin and the first shrill blast of the referee's whistle. The nation in September turns its eyes away from vacations and baseball to feast them upon the gridiron. Recent development of football in the colleges, universities, public schools and athletic clubs has made it a national sport where once it was strictly a college game. When football season opens the whole nation is kin, class barriers erected by education are dropped and player and spectator play the game for all there is in it.

Every month of the year's 12 has something which makes life worth while, but September seems most bountifully endowed with the "better attractions."

COOKING UP IN THE AIR

For the first time in the navy's lighter-than-air history open flames will be employed for cooking in the new naval airship, "Akron," according to the bureau of aeronautics. Experimental work necessary to develop a light-weight range of sufficient capacity to provide food for 20 officers and 96 men proved the efficiency of a gas-burning stove. By employing light metals and devising new methods of construction, the weight of the equipment was brought down to 110 pounds, the maximum allowed by the designers, who were obliged to save every pound of weight. Cast and sheet aluminum are employed extensively, while chronium steel, cast iron, bronze and manganese also are used in the range's construction. Propane gas, carried in cylinders capable of containing a 12-day supply, will be burned. Flameproof burners covered by gauze have been developed. Two ovens, thermostatically controlled, and a warming oven are provided.

DAWES SAYS DISTRESS WILL HELP THE WORLD

Ambassador Dawes has made a speech in Scotland which might well have come from the lips of a religious teacher. In it he declares, in substance at least, that good often comes from seeming evil. He deplores the fact that practically all the peoples of the world are living for the time being in the midst of adverse conditions and business depression. He admits that it is not a pleasant way to live, but he insists that we must not shut our eyes to the important benefits which will come from our present distress. He says: "It is not in times of adversity that mankind makes its mistakes. It makes its most egregious errors and commits its greatest follies in times of prosperity." His argument is that economic trouble will be followed by reforms in each of the countries of the world and will eventually be the means of uniting the nations of the earth.

The ambassador says that, when everybody is prosperous, few appreciate the causes of it, but that they have a way of understanding the reasons for common suffering. Mr. Dawes has a deep knowledge of human nature. Strange as it may seem, unlimited prosperity makes many persons selfish and indifferent to the needs of others. But when a crisis comes and want takes the place of plenty we begin to think of others as well as ourselves. That is one explanation why the poor are so kind to each other. They know the meaning of poverty. It is evidently this thought that causes Mr. Dawes to say: "It is only when common hardship is being endured that absolute interdependence, under a natural law, of individuals and of separate peoples is realized in such a way as to influence mass attitudes, which are always assumed through the feelings of men and not through their reason."

It is because of this that Mr. Dawes is sure that we are going to emerge successfully from the existing crisis. He is confident that it will improve the condition of the individual, the nation and the world. He applies his philosophy particularly to international relations. At a time like this there is little sympathy with the demagogues who would promote international prejudices for internal political purposes. Such men in sunny times delay, if they do not prevent, sensible and constructive agreements among the nations.

There is food for thought in this line of reasoning. "The self-interest of every nation," says the ambassador, "lies in better international understanding and economic peace." It is not too much to say that in his speech Mr. Dawes has made a really important contribution to the endless discussion concerning the present depression.

ROOSEVELT: POLITICIAN

Superficial students of the great game of politics will jump at the conclusion that Governor Roosevelt, when he called an extra session of the legislature to enlarge the powers of the committee investigating alleged corruption in New York City, was sacrificing his own political future on the altar of good government—placing the people's cause before his own and his party's cause.

Most magnanimous and idealistic, but hardly true. Governor Roosevelt would like nothing better than to clinch for himself the 1932 Democratic presidential nomination, and he is political strategist enough to know that his greatest handicap is Tammany support. If he can make the South and West think that he has broken with Tammany Hall, his nomination next June will be a certainty.

No matter how real the "break" between Roosevelt and the Tammany Tiger there is but one man—Al Smith—who could take the New York Democratic delegation away from the governor, whereas the Tammany brand might rob him of the delegates from a score of Tammany-fearing states.

Tammany politics are practical politics so the wigwam might not hold against its governor an official act which he could not evade with safety to himself and his party and which is certain to advance his cause, and its cause, in 1932. Tammany got itself into this mess and does not appear overly importunate in its supplications to Governor Roosevelt to get it out.

Love at first sight never happens before breakfast.

How Many F's?
You Count Them
Is It an Intelligence Test?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A friend of mine took a little piece of paper from his pocket and handed it to me.

I didn't know it was a trap, so I read it. And before I knew it I was deep in one of those simple little, make-you-foolish tests of your powers of observation. It was just a short sentence of sixteen words, and I was asked to read it just once and count the f's in the sentence just once—and tell him how many I found. You read, too, and see how many you find. It's a trick of course but try it. Here is the sentence:

"Federal fuses are the result of years of scientific study combined with the experience of years."

(Now, I'll go away and come back in a few minutes to ask you how many f's you find. Don't look below.)

How many did you see at first glance? There are six f's in that sentence. An average intelligence finds only three. An intelligence above the average finds four. And people who find six right away without any hesitation are annoyingly smart.

I found three. And when I told my friend that was all I saw and he began to laugh, I looked back quickly and found three more—but they didn't count. . . Since then I've shown the clipping to ten women and eight men. Nine of the women found six immediately and looked up blandly innocently, wondering what it was all about? Two unobservant as I am, two found four.

What does that prove?

I don't know unless it proves that women really LOOK at thinks while men read in a hurry and seek only for the sense of what they are looking at. I missed the f's in the three "of's." So did four of the men.

How did YOU come out? As for me, I think its just a silly test, that hasn't anything to do with intelligence at all. That's the only way I can think of to rescue my vanity from a crushing defeat.

TWO QUESTIONS

I sometimes wonder at the last
Just what of us the saints will ask
When we have closed this earthly task
And to Eternity have passed.

As we sit around some Heavenly fire
New-comers to those realms afar
Where all the saints and martyrs are
I wonder what they will inquire.
I can't imagine they will care
What stocks and bonds are quoted at,
Whose purses now are lean or fat,
Or who is in the governor's chair.

The things we've built our pride upon
And like so well to gossip o'er
The selfish ends we've battled for
May have no value later on.

Two questions I am sure will come
When once the conversation starts
"Is hate still breaking human hearts?"
"Are men on earth still quarrelsome?"

Report Of Bankers Renews Discussions Of Reparations

Revision of German Obligations And Greater Co-operation And Good Will In Europe Gain Support From Examination Of Conditions By Experts.

New interest in German reparations has been created by the report of the Wiggin committee of bankers appointed by the World Bank at Basle, following the London conference of powers, on the need of revision for German reparations, combined with the ending of political disputes. There is some adverse comment on any move that would change America's position.

"The committee proves its worth by promptly telling the world to stop kidding itself about reparations and by warning Europe that it must end its political disputes," says the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, with the suggestion that "for the past decade they have all been stalling, hoping against hope that they would not be compelled to face the facts and do the sensible thing." The BALTIMORE SUN sees evidence of the importance of the bankers' suggestion for "thorough examination of the whole structure," in the one-year moratorium. The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS feels that the committee's observations "are pertinent and challenge serious attention, "and that the report "has appealed to the reason of statesmen, financiers, industrialists and all others who are searching for ways to end the existing business depression."

"The sooner the nations face the facts and govern themselves accordingly, the better for all humanity," is the opinion of the DULUTH HERALD, while the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL voices the hope that "the nations directly concerned will regard the bankers' report as a fair warning that something very concrete and definite must be done in the way of additional revision of the reparations schedules before the present moratorium expires." The MANCHESTER UNION concludes: "It has been assumed that if Germany were given time, she could pull out of her present financial predicament, but that assumption becomes daily more untenable."

Attesting to the importance of "mutual confidence," the NEW YORK TIMES declares: "There is something more important than bank loans and credits, more important even than the now demonstrated willingness of financially strong countries to come to the aid of one in difficulties. The wisest and boldest economic plan cannot succeed without the backing of a clear national and international sentiment. Thus the implied appeal is to take advantage of the breathing space fortunately assured by the German moratorium and the suspension of payments on the war debts, in order to frame a larger and conciliatory settlement to be put into effect after the expiration of the year of grace."

"Undoubtedly there will be strong opposition to any move to revise debts and reparations," thinks the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, "but it must be remembered that these payments should, and must, be based on the ability of the nations to pay." The FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM recognizes that "the too-glib repetition by the politicians of the formula, 'No cancellation,' is responsible to a great degree for the present state of mind of the public," and that paper concludes: "The movement for reopening and readjustment of the reparations and debt payments question is a perfectly natural and logical consequence of the Hoover moratorium proposal. The President presumably was prepared to deal with this development when he launched his moratorium plan."

"If the nations that owe us the war billions can afford, as they are doing, to spend more money for armaments and armed men than they spent before the war, why should we cancel their debts to us?" asks the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL. The FORT WAYNE NEWS-SENTINEL holds as a factor in the situation the fact that, "with France spending nearly 22 times as much for armaments as she is called upon to pay on war debts, she could keep up her war-debt payments and take a great deal less from Germany without being seriously cramped in anything except her ambition to dominate the world by force." The AKRON BEACON JOURNAL avers that "no impulse is being given the common effort to restore better times to this nation so long as Uncle Sam is fanatically engaged in foreign missions." The COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL comments: "What stand the United States will take ultimately cannot be known until Congress decides, and if we are any prophet of Congressional action, that body will do all that is reasonable to assure Germany a fair deal and at the same time protect the rights of American citizens."

"The committee has submitted a frank, well considered report," says the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS. "It found that Germany's commercial obligations to foreign countries total about $1,875,000,000. Co-operation with international bankers who are short-term creditors, the committee arranged for a six-month extension on debts aggregating $1,200,000,000. That understanding already has helped improve conditions, and doubtless it will be followed by better collaboration among the principal Powers."

"The encouraging fact is," according to the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, "that things have been moving rapidly, and in logical order, since President Hoover took the initiative with his moratorium proposal. There is everywhere a determined striving to get together and apply whatever measures are necessary, however unpalatable some of them may be, and however counter to nationalistic prejudices. This disposition has been greatly accentuated since the near collapse of Germany has been followed with a gravely threatening condition in Great Britain. Civilization, in its extremity, is learning the truth of its essential unity. The disposition for co-operation was never so notable, not only among nations but among groups within nations."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NOTHING LIKE IT.

The most remarkable literature of all time known to mortals is that contained in the Bible. It is not necessary for one to be a religious fanatic to appreciate this fact. Many men considered by the churchly as lost souls are more familiar with the Book than are some of the learned expounders of this and the passage who occupy the pulpit of the land.

I know of one man who loves the literature of the King James version so much and who has learned so much of the contents of the Bible by heart that he uses constantly quotations by letter and by wire to express himself. No words could tell his thoughts more clearly.

He built up an Institution and when he was being replaced by another, wired his friend as follows:

"I hated all my labour which I had taken under the sun: because I should leave it unto the men that shall be after me. And who knoweth whether he shall be a wise man or a fool? Yet shall he have rule over all my labour wherein I have laboured, and wherein I have shewed myself wise under the sun. This is also vanity."

Again, learning that his friend was about to journey to see him, he wired:

"I thank God whom I serve without ceasing, I have remembrance of thee, greatly desiring to see thee that I may be filled with joy."

ARE YOU SO UNUSUAL

It might be interesting to you to try to analyse yourself as to why you consider yourself better than other people.

Ever done anything to indicate you have a superior mind?

Ever attained more than local fame?

Are you more thoroughly educated than your associates?

Are you holding a position that would be recognized as unusual in a larger place or community?

In the conduct of your every day life can you claim to be far above the average in accomplishment?

What good deeds have you done that others have not done so well?

Just why then do you think of yourself as superior?

Why should you snub or be uncivil to those whom you believe to be not so competent and honored as yourself.

Is it because you have more money than they?

If money is your only claim to lofty position you thereby demonstrate how small you are—puffed up over the easiest thing to gain and of only relative value, you show pretty small caliber.

Considered from all sides, are you not an ordinary sort of person?

My only desire is to know the truth, my only fear, to cling to error.

Postal Force, Families Honor Mails Chief Soon To Retire From Service

Corn Roast At Lakewood, Drawing 200, Becomes Testimonial Event

FRANK M. WILSON CENTER OF TRIBUTE

Surprising their retiring superintendent of mails, Frank M. Wilson the entire force of carriers and clerks of the local postoffice gathered at Lakewood beach Saturday evening for a corn roast, joined to honor him in a fitting tribute to his 34 years of superior postal service both as an official and employe.

Wilson's retirement, scheduled for the middle of September, was kept secret from most of the postal force until Saturday night. The announcement of it came unexpectedly to many.

The office employes, together with their families, had gone to Lakewood chiefly for the corn roast, and like Mr. Wilson, knew nothing of the testimonial until the dinner had been concluded.

Clark Officiates.

Speaking for the office staff, W. E. Clark, member of the postmen's division, presented to Superintendent Wilson a handsome and completely outfitted fishing set. The presentation came as Clark brought to a close his appropriate introductory remarks. The crowd of 200 or more, assembled around the speaker's platform, applauded loudly as Mr. Wilson arose.

Almost overcome with emotion of the tribute, Mr. Wilson found it difficult for a moment to find adequate expression of his feelings. His response was a sincere one, spoken by one who started out in the humblest postal job and rose to the supervisory position from which he now is about to retire. He certainly assured the "boys"—that's what he calls them—of his love for fishing and promised to make good use of the appreciated gift.

Mr. Wilson and the other Izaac Walton followers in the throng inspected the gift for a considerable time following the close of the ceremony.

Special Entertainment.

The presentation by Mr. Clark came at the conclusion of a brief musical program given by Watkins C. H. Matthews and William Rudloff, Cleveland. Matthews, a rural carried here, played numbers on his musical saw, while Mr. Rudloff, the guest of Carrier Fred Kuech, entertained on his accordion.

The dinner event, probably the most enjoyable ever staged by the postal force, was under the general direction of David B. Thomas, clerks' president. Thomas L. Donegan was secretary of the committee on arrangements. Beautiful table flowers were the gift of Milt Houk and Frank Sherger of the office force. The corn was grown by the rural carriers.

The invocation before dinner was pronounced by Assistant Postmaster James G. Leslie, after which "America" was sung before the diners sat down. Postmaster Edwin Crawford was also present.

Mushball was the chief sport of the early evening, both before and after the meal, while dancing furnished diversion during the later hours. Clyde Stevens of the clerks won a uesful pocket flashlight in a bean jar guessing event, a feature of the evening's program.

Special visitors for the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Alva Williams, residents of Monroe, Wis. Mr. Williams serves as a rural carrier in that western district.

Handle Details.

Serving on the various committees which capably handled the outing details were the following:

Representing the clerks—Guy S. Aubel, William McIvor, Scott Richards and George Owens.

Representing the rural carriers—Wylie Patton, Clarence Richael and Albert Johnson.

Committee on present—W. E. Clark, C. R. Weide, Thomas Donegan and Albert Johnson.

SUN'S RELATION TO CLIMATE, WINDS AND WEATHER

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

It is to be remembered that the whole system of climate, winds and weather experienced upon the earth is due to the sun's radiation: Accurate computing reveals that the energy involved, in the radiation activity of the sun amounts to 84,000 horsepower per minute for every square meter (10.76 square feet). If the atmosphere around the earth did not absorb any of the sun's radition, a vertical sun would melt a layer of ice five-eights of an inch thick in an hour, or a layer of ice covering the entire earth's surface 114 feet thick, in one year. The solar constant (intensity at earth's mean distance) is 2 per cent greater in numerous sun-spot years.

Local Boys Have New Song "Sorry"

Latest Composition Of New Castle Song Writers Heard Saturday

Charles A. Shepp, Russell W. Stewart and Franklin Bentel, local boys, have collaborated in a new song hit, "Sorry", which is expected to prove popular during the coming winter.

The song is now in the hands of the publishers and will be ready for distribution in the near future.

It was publicly introduced for the first time Saturday, when Gene and Glenn, popular radio entertainers of the WTAM studio sang it at the Cathedral.

The same authors recently produced the song "It", which made a hit locally.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from New Castle Drug Co., or any good druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Ellwood City Banker Shares State Program; Report Of Conference

Concrete evidence of aid that the bankers of the State have given to agriculture in general, and to the farmers of their respective communities in particular, was reported by C. P. Cloak, Vice President of the First National Bank of Ellwood City, Pa., and Key Banker of the Agricultural Committee Pennsylvania Bankers Association for Lawrence County from State College where the Pennsylvania Bankers Association committee on agriculture and the County Key Bankers held their fourth annual conference Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Examples of successful projects that had been carried out by banks in various counties of the State were recited in detail by the bankers who suggested that other communities might try them with profit to the farmer and the banker as well.

Sponsoring such projects, particularly in times of financial stress as at present, is one of the rural banker's chief responsibilities in the opinion of those who addressed the group during the two-day sessions. Tours of the county by the county banker's association, exhibits of farm products in the bank building, organization of club activities for boys and girls, advertising campaigns to stimulate consumption of a certain product, and assistence with cooperatives were pointed out as some of the more successful projects to be backed by the bank.

Organization of a bankers' association within the county was declared by the visitors to be almost indispensable in the furtherance of a successful banker-farmer program.

Underlying the entire agricultural situation in Pennsylvania is a feeling of confidence in himself on the part of the farmer, Mr. C. F. Zimmerman of Huntingdon, secretary of the state association, told the delegates in his address. This self confidence is a trust that the bankers must not betray when the farmer needs financial help. Mr. Zimmerman declared, and added that in his observation the Pennsylvania farmer has no intention of folding up and quitting in the face of adversity but is digging in to see the job through.

Rural taxation problems were mentioned by nearly every speaker on the program. The general feeling on the part of the bankers is that there must be a revision of taxes to bring about a parity between farm income and the income from the industrial system before there is complete restoration of the country's purchasing power. A tax program based on the earning capacity of the farm was recommended as a possible step to bring about stabilization.

Work that the Pennsylvania State College is doing through its agricultural extension service came in for praise by the bankers who agreed that it would be virtually impossible to carry out a project of farmer aid without the assistance of the county agents. M. S. McDowell, director of this extension work, urged the bankers to encourage members of the community to take part in this program stating that the county agent and the banker could not do it alone.

One out-of-state banker addressed the group. Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director of the American Institute of Banking, New York City.

Among the speakers on the program who were assigned by William S. McKay, of Greenville, director of the conference and treasurer of the state association, to discuss various topics were:

F. B. Michaels, Stroudsburg; Frank A. Glenn and T. D. Harman, Pittsburgh; C. P. Coak, Ellwood City; E. B. Reed, Mercer; Eugene Woods, Sligo; Ralph Witmer, Selinsgrove; Jesse K. Cope, Jr., Lansdale; N. E. Robb, Bellefonte; E. B. Harshaw, Grove City; C. H. Swigart, Huntingdon; Clifford E. Hartman, St. Marys and H. G. Niesley of the college extension staff.

Gold Star Mother Dies On Steamer

Mrs. Mary Jones, Meyersdale, Pa., Dies Enroute To United States From France

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The War Department reported the death on board the steamship America Saturday of Mrs. Mary Jones, Meyersdale, Pa., a war mother, returning to this country after visiting the grave in France of her son, Edward Jones, of Company C, 110th infantry.

Death occurred at sea and Major Joseph F. Cottrell was instructed to have the body prepared for burial and to escort it to the home.

The America is scheduled to dock in New York's port September 5.

Mrs. Jones was one of a group of war mothers who took the pilgrimage to the American battlefields in France under supervision of the War Department.

Tariff Commission Member Is Suicide

Police Believe Alfred Pearce Dennis, 62, Leaps To Death In Maine

(International News Service)

BRUNSWICK, Me., Aug. 31.—Alfred Pearce Dennis, 62, of Washington, D. C., member of the United States tariff commission, was found dead Saturday by drowning, off Bailey's Island, and was believed by officials to have committed suicide.

Mental depression because of fears that a nervous breakdown was impending was the cause for the act in the belief of Medical Examiner Dr. Gilbert M. Elliott.

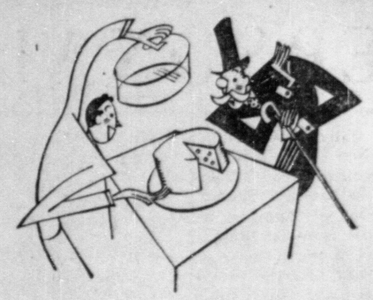
Dennis, who came to the exclusive summer colony on the island with his wife and two sons early this week, was found near a 25-foot ledge from which he was believed by Dr. Elloitt and Chief of Police William B. Edwards to have leaped into Caso Bay yesterday afternoon.

Explosion In Home Brings Small Loss

Clifford Bradford, a plumber, jumped out of a second floor window to a porch roof at 210 Milton street, early Saturday afternoon after the explosion of a plumber's furnace with which he was at work filled a bathroom with flames and smoke.

Damage of about $25 resulted in the home residence, of Oliver McNees, the tenant, for whom the plumber was working. Central, No. 3 and No. 4 companies of firemen responded.

That bull which invaded the Pittsburgh railroad station had even less chance for his life than his brethern who try to nose into Wall Street.—The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.



DISCOVERED

Before the Crash, everybody knew that A & P stores sold food at bargain prices. In most people's opinion that was A & P's claim to name and fame. But even in those careless days, A & P had many customers among the thrifty and intelligent well-to-do, as well as among those who had to save money.

These customers were first attracted by bargain prices, but they soon found A & P food the best they could buy at any price.

Today, with money scarce, thousands of new customers have discovered A & P. And they have been quick to realize that their tables are just as well set as ever, but at a great saving.

Money will become easy again, but in the meantime the American people have become food wise. The old myth that high quality and high prices go together has worn thin. For A & P food has become famous for quality.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

A little comparison of the roads now in use in these days and those in the early history of Lawrence county and New Castle will make most of the present day generation feel pleased with the fact that they live in the present modern age. At the time the first white settlements were made in this district, the only roads were merely paths or Indian Trails, which generally followed the course of the larger streams, though they occasionally deviated from them to follow the district or high lands between streams. All the principal trails in this district on Kush-Kush-Kee, the most important Indian village in this district. A common means of locomotion was by canoe on the Beaver river and its branches, the Mahoning and Shenango rivers. In 1805, the state appointed viewers to lay out and establish "State Roads." One of the earliest of these was laid out from Scrub Grass Creek in Venango County via New Castle to Youngstown, O. It passed through New Castle on North street which at that time was the principal thoroughfare of the city. The Pittsburgh turnpike was opened at an early date and a road to Mercer was among the first running north from New Castle. The Beaver River Road was also opened about 1805. The oldest road from New Castle to Mercer passed through Fayette. Another was opened later by the way of New Wilmington. About 1850 came the New Castle and New Wilmington plank road, which was a step toward the improved highway of today.

MILLBURN

Millburn grange held its regular bi-monthly meeting Friday evening, August 28, at the grange hall. A drill in ritual took the place of the lecturer's hour. On Friday, September 11 at 8 p. m. Millburn will be host to Pleasant Valley grange in the Millburn hall. Light refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. Announcement was made of the postponed meeting of the Friendship club which is arranged for Monday afternoon, August 31, at the hall.

The rains of the past two weeks have done a great deal for the late potatoes which have about doubled in size in that time. Corn has also been helped and silage corn particularly has grown to great height. Many fields of clover are in fine shape for second crop cutting. Wells and springs are in much better shape to begin winter. Fruit is abundant in this section also so that in spite of low prices for produce and stock which still prevail the outlook for winter is much better than a year ago.

Mrs. Harry Liebhardt died at her home south of Mercer on Thursday night, August 27, after a lingering illness of eight months. Funeral services were held at the home on Friday evening at 7:30 and Saturday the body was taken to York, Pa., for interment.

M. M. Orr sold five head of stock to a buyer from Greenville the last of the week.

Unidentified Body Of Man Is Found In Washington County

Partially Decomposed Body Of Middle-Aged Man Found In Orchard

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 30.—Finding of the partially decomposed body of a middle-aged man in an orchard on the outskirts of West Alexander today puzzled Washington county authorities who were seeking the man's identity.

Apparently the body had been exposed to the elements for about two weeks, and it was believed by the investigators that the dead man had either committed suicide or had succumbed to a severe illness. There were no marks of violence on the body.

Money in one of the pockets had not been disturbed. Clothing offered no means of identification. The man was well-dressed, wearing a dark brown suit, and weighed about 170 pounds, authorities said.

Police Arrest Eight On Gambling Charge

Surprise Visit Made On South Jefferson Street Sunday Night

Taken by surprise when police staged a sudden visit by entering the front and rear of the establishment at 219 South Jefferson street shortly before midnight Sunday, eight men, who, police charge, were gambling, were arrested after they had scooped up a considerable amount of money from a table when the officers arrived.

Seven others arrested gave their names as Thomas Malley, Albert Valentino, John Josephs, Jerry Russo, John Ross, Sam Frank and Charles Bulla. Each put up a $10 forfeit. Several of the arrested arrived to face Mayor Gillespie this morning, but were fined the amount of the forfeit.

The visit was staged following receipt of a call for help from Officer Flinner. Officers Kennedy, H. E. Richards and Suber were sent to the scene. The four divided and rushed the players from rear and front entrances.

Piles of silver and bills were in evidence, police report, but before they could approach the table the players had grabbed the money, leaving only 50 cents and a deck of cards.

THREE WOMEN THANKFUL PIERSON WAS ARRESTED

ious clippings from writers, articles and treatises on love, friendship, and other romantic subjects. He culled from the world's authorities on psychology, philosophy and science. He underlined for ready use the smart sayings of famous humorists, the sparkling epigrams of poets and prostituted the thoughts and creative efforts of the great for his base ambitions.

But breaking through his word-mask of high mindedness were occasional allusions to murder, death, assault and suicide.

His synthetic system of lotve-making even went further. Pierson analyzed his victims, apparently and gave each correspondent a different "treatment." However, each series of letters began at a certain tempo and worked up to a climax.

Number one to eight meant the initial state in his love-lettering "03-4-5" meant high-tide in the correspondence.

Pierson kept a black code book with his records. Sometimes, as in the case of one of Miss Bell's letters, he would put his code on the back of the envelope.

Ardent Lover

One paragraph in a letter written by Pierson to Mrs. Simpson, unmailed because of his arrest, read as follows:

"No darling, I'll say right here that as a man with brains and ability to attain the fortune a man can, I'll never make a drunken fool out of myself, standing for a lot of wise cracks from a fat, flabby-faced night club hostess who stands by like a Simon Legree in skirts, lip-lashing her skinny cabaret girls to strut their stuff like so many bloodhounds amid the cracked ice."

This was a verbatim extract from an article dealing with murder, assault and insanity as the result of liquor.

The original article was entered in the code book of Pierson, its number indicating that it had been sent to a certain number of women, including Mrs. Simpson and Miss Bell.

Great Britain May Sell Land To Cover Debts

Possibility Exists That Great Britain Give Up Part Of Islands

FINANCIAL CRISIS NOT CLEARING UP

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 31—Sale of certain of Britain's colonial possessions to the United States as a means of liquidating her war debts was being seriously discussed in official circles here today.

Disposal of the West Indies was pronounced "discussable" in official circles, although it was made clear the United States would be taking on a 'big burden" through such a purchase.

Some years ago the break-up of the British empire for the purpose of alleviating the mother country's financial burdens was discussed, but nothing came of it, and the Prince of Wales was prompted to proclaim, somewhat indignantly, that "the British empire is not for sale."

Anything Is Possible

Some officials, however, now hold that "anything is possible in view of the crisis," but whether the government actually would embark upon barter of the colonial possessions if an offer was made was uncertain.

Surrender of Britain's mandate over Iraq, which has been discussed frequently, would have to come under the scrutiny of the league of nations. Disposal of Palestine, which the daily mail urged today, was held impossible, because every time it has been suggested a world-wide Jewish protest has resulted.

POLICE SAY 'MAIL SUITOR' CONFESSES SLAYING FOUR

Harry Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, 45-year-old operator of a one-man matrimonial agency, has confessed, according to police at Clarksburg, W. Va., that he murdered Mrs. Asta Eicher, well-to-do widow of Park Ridge, Ill., and her three small children. Photos show Powers in handcuffs at Clarksburg, six miles from a garage constructed by Powers, where the bodies were buried; Mrs. Eicher; her children, Anabel, 9; Henry, 12; Greta, 13; and one of Powers' letters to her.

Fast Stepper

One of England's hopes in the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles is Mrs. Muriel Cornell, international low hurdles champion, who is shown working out in London. Uncle Sam's lassies will have to step some to keep up with Johnny Bull's speedy daughter who stars in the broad jump as well.

Bluebeard Victim

Mrs. Aste Buick Eicher (above), who was, with her three children, slain by Cornelius Pierson, alias Harry F. Powers, according to his confession, and buried in shallow graves near his home at Clarksburg, W. Va. Police are searching for more bodies following the finding of many love letters to Pierson from women all over the country.

"Witch" Held

Known to neighbors as "the Witch of Delray," Mrs. Rose Veres, 48, of Delray, Detroit suburb, is being held by the Detroit police pending investigation in the deaths of ten men in her home during the past eight years. Mrs. Veres is said to have insured the victims.

He's Cleaning Up—'Way Up!

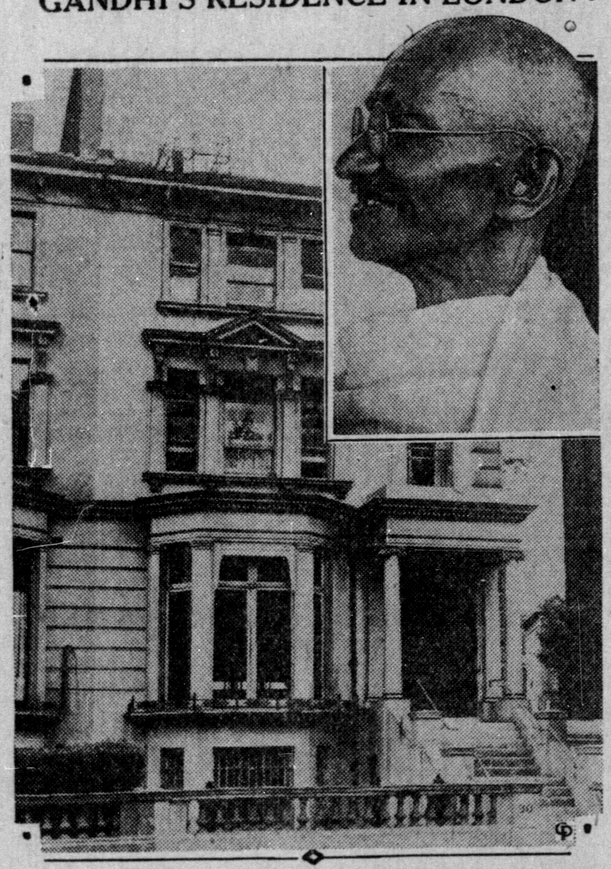
GANDHI'S RESIDENCE IN LONDON?



This suburban villa in Belsize Park, has been placed at the disposal of Mahatma Gandhi (inset), India's leader, for use during his London visit. It is owned by a rich Indian merchant and is decorated throughout in Indian style. He arrives in London, Sept. 9.

Learning Again

Step by step, like a baby learning to walk, Evelyn Knapp, screen actress, is slowly recovering the use of her legs in Los Angeles after being confined to bed for two months. The beautiful film star was seriously injured when she fell down a cliff while hiking in the mountains near Hollywood.

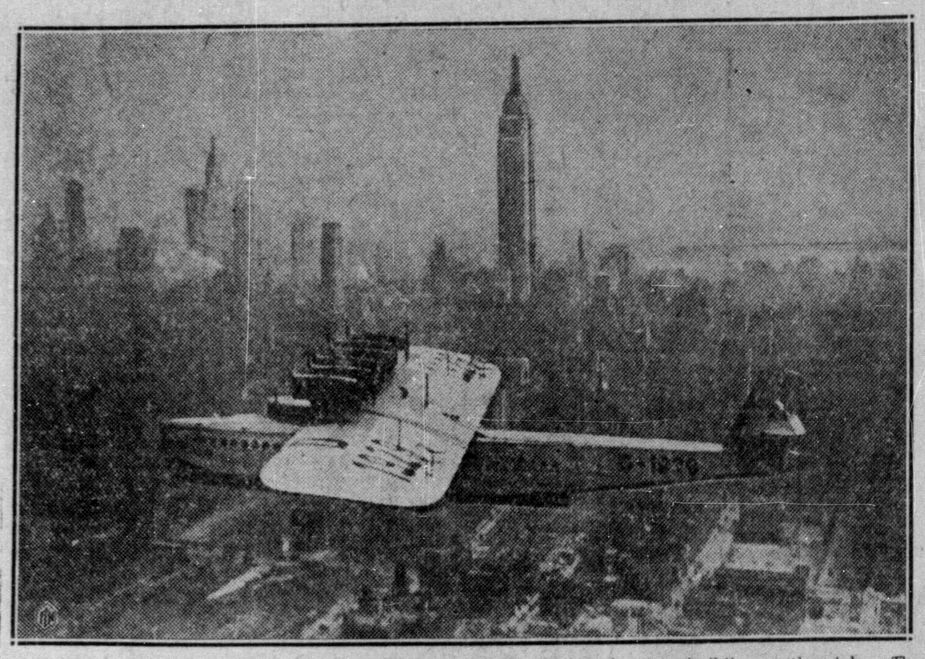
"Miss England" Tuned for Cup Race

Being tried out on the Detroit River for the first time since her arrival in this country the "Miss England II," Kaye Don's entry in the Harmsworth Trophy Race presented this thrilling picture. Don, who made a new world's record of 110 miles per hour with this boat, will meet Gar Wood and his "Miss America IX" at Detroit Labor Day. The Harmsworth Trophy, which the American driver has won for ten consecutive years, is emblematical of the world's motorboat championship.

TRUTH SERUM FREES PRISON LIFER

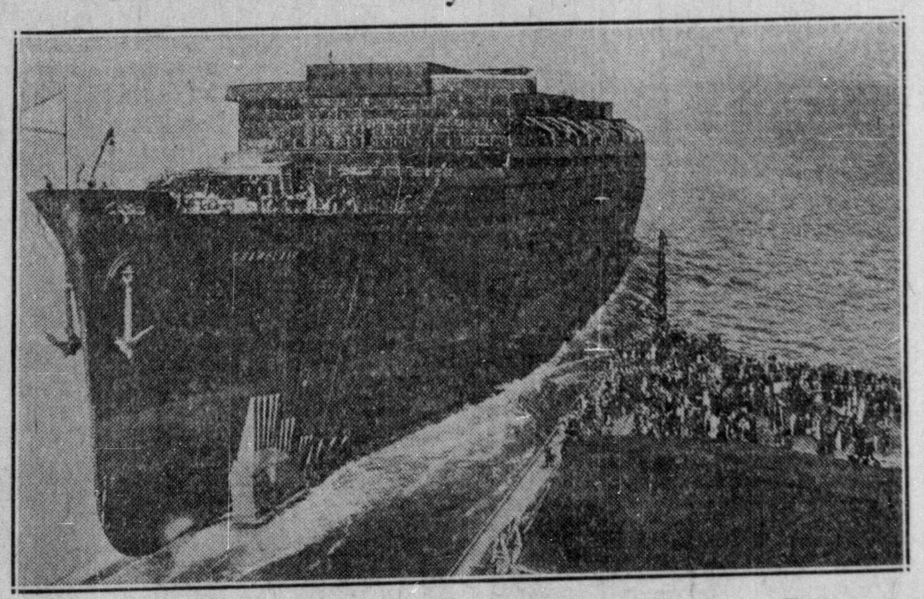
"Truth serum" is partially responsible for the release of Claud Newton, from the Oklahoma state penitentiary, at McAlester, after serving only four years of his life term. Newton, claiming he was innocent of the killing of a policeman, in Oklahoma City, and insisting he was the victim of mistaken identity, volunteered to take the serum at a peace officers' convention. While under the influence of the drug he maintained his innocence and did likewise on another occasion. Photo shows Newton as he walked from the gates of the prison, to meet his mother, who was waiting for him.

Man-Made Monuments to Progress



Two imposing sights, the giant German Dornier DO-X flying boat in the foreground and the towering Empire State Building in the background, make this an unusual picture of two of the greatest things of their kind in the world. The DO-X is the largest craft in the universe, the Empire State reaches higher than any building on the globe. The DO-X, in landing at New York, completed an aerial voyage to America started in November, 1930, from Lake Constance, Switzerland. Thousands roared their welcome to the huge German airplane as it circled the metropolis and landed on the waters of upper New York bay.

New Ocean Greyhound Launched



The new super cabin-liner "Champlain" is shown being launched under the flag of the French Line at Saint Nazaire, France, amidst great celebration participated in by notables from Paris and thousands of other cheering people. The new ocean greyhound, majestic as it slides into its element, will be ready to enter the New York-Havre run early next Spring, it is forecast.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

High School Pupil Needs Guidance

Parents Should Be Interested In Studies—Dr. Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Students of the best high schools, particularly students beyond the first semester of the freshman year, had their school program for this fall term mapped out with them by the aid of an expert adviser. In some high schools such expert guidance has not been available and, with the forced entrenchment which has hit most public schools, this adviser has been eliminated, in which event some teacher usually has helped the student shape his program. But there are many high school students, even of the upper years, who will not know until the first day of school this fall what subjects they will study. I wonder how many parents know about the programs of their children which were made last June. Relatively few, perhaps, and fewer still will talk over with their adolescent children the still unshaped program.

Some parents who had not been at all concerned about these matters wake up suddenly near the time when their children graduate to discover that, whereas they all along had planned to send these children to college the next year, they are debarred from college, at least for the time being, because they had not pursued the necessary subjects to prepare for college.

* * *

In the schools where the teacher and other school officials had all along been in close touch with the student, working out with him his program, he who had not pursued courses preparatory to college was, in most instances, purposely and wisely diverted from such courses because his earlier school progress and all the facts available about his learning capacity did not promise for him success in these high school courses or in college. The kindest thing the school can do for this student is so to divert him. Some schools, indeed, assume the responsibility for debarring students from pursuit of college preparatory studies, turning them, instead, into the more strictly vocational courses. Such guidance has support in considerable scientific data. Since the school is responsible to the community for the best possible disbursement of public funds, it seems justified in taking such a stand. When a pupil, in the light of available evidence, is almost sure to be a faliure if, for instance, he studied Latin, then it is a waste of public funds for the school to let him study Latin. Of course, the best school expert can make mistakes; but he is far less likely to do so than the layman. He can be most accurate in guidance when he is in close co-operation with the parents of the pupil.

Certainly the parent ought to know what his child is studying at school, and what opportunities and obstacles the program he pursues offers or sets up. Foolish are we parents if we assume that the school is always going to take the initiative in keeping us posted on these matters. Our opportunity and our obligation to our children is to find out.

* * *

Not only do we want our children to be guided in the choice of particular studies, but we also want them to stick by the program they start upon, unless there are valid reasons for their shifting. It is appalling how many adolescent students, after a week or two in a given study, are allowed to shift from it to another. Regardless of the reason given by the student for wishing to change, the real reason often is of the most whimsical sort, such as that a favorite schoolmate is in the second course, that the teacher in it tells many jokes or is an easy marker. Let us help our adolescent children to choose their school program with great care, and then to stick by it, especially to the end of the semester.

Italian Ace Here To Fly Against American

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—The thrill of flying against American pilots is one of the important reasons for Colonel Mario De Bernardi's desire that Italy win the Schneider cup race next month in England.

Bernardi, Italian flying ace captured the trophy at Norfolk in 1926. Although now retired from the Italian air force, he is here to fly in a team of four foreign airmen during the national air races during the early part of September.

A victory for Great Britain in the Schneider race will be her third in succession, giving her permanent possession of the trophy. That's why he hopes Italy can capture this year's race. Competition, then, will be kept alive long enough, he said for United States to have another try at the coveted cup.

"I should like then to return to racing myself," he remarked, "It is a great thrill to fly against American airmen."

GAVE OWN CAR A TOW

(International News Service)

BRIDEPORT, Conn.—State Senator John Lynch was called upon to tow a car to Milford late one August night, and responded, because the men who made the request were his friends. When he had finished a very careful job, he was asked to look at the machine. It was one of his own, left at a garage and identified by his friends. The senator declared the night was so dark he hadn't noticed the car, paying attention only to those who made the request.

Aboard Airliner Eastern Air Transport

Smoking compartment, Washington-New York plane. Hostess offering Chesterfields. Photos by courtesy Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

"Dear Peggy

I'm almost too excited to write, and there's so much to see, both inside the plane and out. We've left Washington behind now, and I've just had a Chesterfield in the smoking compartment—they serve them on every ship.

"Among the eighteen passengers there's a senator and a foreign diplomat, and I'm surprised at the number of women. The trip is two hundred miles and the meter in the cabin reads two miles a minute, think of that.

"For me, the Chesterfields were the nicest touch of all. I was just dying for a smoke, and when the hostess passed them (and my favorite cigarette at that) everyone else seemed as tickled as I was. And my—they did taste good!"

Chesterfields are served in the smoking compartments of all these planes—the largest and most luxurious in the East. With the fast growth of air travel, Chesterfield makes many new friends each day, here as in city streets and country homes—wherever good taste counts.

A mild cigarette—delightfully mild and smooth—with a tobacco fragrance all its own.

Whether you're air-minded or not, you'll always find Chesterfield on the air-line to taste—the quickest way to get there. They Satisfy!

STROUSS-HIRSHBERG'S

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press.

VIENNA, Aug. 31.—A sense of unreality fogs Vienna. That tradition of waltzes and dreamy grace created by a thousand plays and novels was not spun out of nothing. First glimpse of the Ringstrasse makes you know that Vienna is not going to relinquish without a struggle the mellowness she knew, and the gayety and the charm, in the decade before the war.

I do not know how other Americans react to the way they are treated in Vienna. I had heard little one way or another before yesterday from any traveler. But everywhere here the tourist must be astonished and rendered almost bashful by the courtesy and kindness of the natives.

* * *

MILITANT AMERICANS

The word "tip"—cudgel in the hands of Frenchmen—seldom shatters the mild Viennese air. No matter what you give you are thanked and wished a pleasant journey. Last night a small, hawk-nosed gentleman with distinctly New Yorkish accents barged into the lobby of the Krantz Ambassador demanding that the manager check up on the amount asked by the taxi driver outside. The manager demonstrated the fare was correct and went out with the American to pay. The cab was gone.

And the American, militantly determined not to be gypped, can scarcely be blamed. He has learned, traveling in Europe, to adopt an attitude more or less like that, or else be trimmed more roundly than the original visitor who bought Brooklyn bridge from a stranger on the streets of New York. Annual trips to Europe make more patriots than all the government propaganda ever turned out in America. There are Americans who boast loudly and absurdly over here—but it may be that some of them have been slightly deranged by the high-pressure raiding of pocketbooks.

In Vienna, if there is any bleeding, it is done gracefully and under the anaesthetic of gentle music and good manners.

* * *

SHOPPER'S IMPRESSIONS

This is a paradise for women with a weakness for leather goods—pocketbooks, handbags, sewing cases and so on. Every other shop window is full of them, and the most expensive I saw on display was an ornate, silver-trimmed affair with modernistic markings at 200 schillings, or about $28.

Bookstores exist on every corner. In one block I counted 12. The habit of browsing is so firmly intrenched here that it is often difficult to dig up a sales person and pay for purchases. I became rather embarrassed for my countrymen when shown, by the ninth consecutive bookstore proprietor, a row of snappy magazines and collections of pictures of German nude cults immediately upon entering the shop.

Of course, in each case I hurried indignantly and precipitately out.

* * *

"CAFE" MEANS JUST THAT

The sign "cafe" has here a thoroughly literal meaning. I discovered, after a number of experiments, that in a Viennese cafe it may be possible to buy a meal but very probably not. Coffee and beer are on tap but if you ask for a menu you are regarded quizzically.

"This is not a restaurant, sir," the headwaiter declares (in more hazy English than that). "It is only a cafe."

And in every cafe there is a voluminous library. As soon as you sit down you are presented with a bale of current periodicals. American and English magazines are always on top of the pile, but Czechoslovakian publications are included, just in case. Imagine an Englishman entering Childs and being handed a copy of Sketch!

* * *

Strolling about the Ring last night, with an American who has lived in Vienna for years, we passed a furious argument going on beside a taxi at the curb. A kilted young man was telling the driver where to get off in explosive German.

"He doesn't want to ride in a gyp cab," my friend explained. "You see, it is an 80 instead of a 50 groschen meter."

The incident made me homesick for New York.

Schools Resume In Mercer County

MERCER, Aug. 31.—The major portion of the remaining unopened public schools of Mercer county start their 1931-1932 academic session today.

The New Vernon and New Lebanon schools opened August 24; all the remaining schools excepting the larger towns of Farrell, Sharon, Sharpsville, Greenville, Mercer and Grove City which open September 8th have their opening today.

The opening affects a return to school of 22.000 children in this county.

Smartly Clad Body Of Woman Found In Bathroom Of Home In San Diego

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 31.—San Diego was confronted with another feminine death mystery Saturday. The body of Mrs. Maude Detweiler, smartly clad, was found in the bath tub of her fashionable apartment. Her arms had been burned severely by a fluid used as cleaning solvent.

Authorities were told Mrs. Detweiler was the estranged wife of an army aviator but he was not located.

Mrs. Florence Putnam, a friend, discovered the body and summoned coroner's deputies to determine the exact cause of death.

TEN MULES ON A SPREE

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mules may raise Saturday night whoopee, too. The weekend night reserved in the south as an unofficial holiday for negroes, was chosen by ten mules as a fit occasion to flee their pasture at Longview, Miss., and see Memphis. They galloped the 25 miles to Memphis and stampeded traffic in that city until police took them in tow and held them for the owner. D. C. Bomar, of Munford, Tenn.

Over-Subscription Of Government Bonds Is Prediction Of Today

Government Opens List Of Bonds And Certificates Worth $1,100,000,000

Believe Billion Dollar Deficit Will Exist At End Of Next Fiscal Year

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Oversubscription of $1,100,000,000 of government bonds and certificates was predicted today as the list was opened to the public at record low interest rates.

The two issues, consisting of $800,000,000 of 24-year 3-per cent bonds, and $300,000,000 of 1-year certificates bearing 1 1-8 per cent interest, are a part of the treasury's plan of financing the government while it is running "in the red."

No Change In Policy.

The issue of long term bonds, following two others aggregating about a billion and a half dollars, was accepted here as an indication that the administration has decided against any change in its policy of increasing the public debt rather than raising taxes this year.

The bond issue will bear interest from Sept. 15, and while the maturity date is set as Sept. 15, 1955, they will be redeemable at option by the government after the same date in 1951.

Applications for the bonds were being received today at the federal reserve banks. The bonds will be issued in denominations ranging from $50 to $100,000.

Will Be Exempt.

Under the law, the bonds will be exempt from all taxation except estate, inheritance and surtaxes.

In setting the bond issue interest rate at 3 per cent, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon established a new record.

The first of the so-called "deficit bond issues," issued last March, bore 3 3-8 per cent interest. This was shaved to 3 1-8 per cent on the June issue. The new rate presumably was established because of the oversubscription of the last issue.

Whether other bond issues will follow may be determined by income tax receipts due on Sept. 15. The treasury's latest statement showed a deficit of more than $387,000,000 during the fiscal year which began July 1 as compared to $237,000,000 during a similar period last year.

May Reach Billion.

Since last year's deficit reached $903,000,000, it was indicated that a deficit of a billion dollars may be registered in the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The treasury announced it will pay $634,000,000 certificates of indebtedness, together with about $30,000,000 in interest on the public debt, on Sept. 15.

VICTIMS IN 'MAIL ORDER' MURDER

Central Press Telephoto

This is the last picture of Mrs. Anna Eicher and her children, Annabel, Greta and Harry, of Park Ridge, Ill., whose bodies have been unearthed in a ditch near Clarksburg, W. Va. Harry Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, who conducted a "mail order" romance with Mrs. Eicher, is reported by Clarksburg police to have confessed to the slayings. The bodies were buried a short distance from a garage owned by Powers and in which many of the effects of the Eicher family were discovered. The above photo was taken just before the family started on its ill-fated journey.

Official Welcome To Lindberghs Near End

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Aug. 31.—The official Japanese welcome to Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh neared an end today, the concluding event on the program being tonight's dinner in their honor to be given by Premier Wakatsuki.

Tomorrow the famous flyers must face three weeks of private entertainments.

They were guests of the city of Tokyo last night at a civic reception in an amphitheatre surrounded by trees, being driven there by Mayor Nagata of Tokyo in an automobile covered with flowers.

Then thousand people cheered the couple as they were escorted to the center of the amphitheatre by the mayor, who, in a speech, praised the character and achievements of the young colonel. Lindbergh made a brief response and Ambassador Forbes thanked Japan on behalf of the American government for the cordiality of her greeting to the two Americans.

In the afternoon Colonel Lindbergh visited the air research institute of the Imperial university. Earlier he met most of the members of Tokyo's American colony at a tea given by the American association.

OFFICERS SEARCH GARAGE VICINITY FOR MORE VICTIMS

letters to women who were duped by his one-man matrimonial agency.

Love Notes Fatal.

Mrs. Asta Eicher of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Lempke of Northboro and Worcester, Mass., were the two victims to whom he wrote of love which spelled out death, and after he had garroted their mother, the mail-order murderer strangled the three pretty children of Mrs. Eicher.

Among Pierson's effects is a marked story on the black hole of Calcutta.

So he built himself a concrete garage without any house in a lonely spot, and this is what he did with it, according to his detailed confession to City Detective Carl Southern, State Police Corporal Dorsey Bailey and Police Chief C. A. Duckworth.

Story of Killings.

"I put 14-year-old Greta Eicher in one room in the garage cellar," said Pierson. "Then I put Harry Eicher, 12, and Annabel Eicher, 9, into another room. I put Mrs. Eicher and Mrs. Lempke each in a room.

"I killed Mrs. Eicher first, I strangled her with a rope around the neck.

"Then I walked through Annabel's chamber and killed the two younger kids, the brother and sister. I hit the little boy on the head with a hammer before putting the rope around his throat.

"They never made any noise or put up any fight.

"I killed the older girl and Mrs. Lempke last by strangling both.

"No, I didn't have any trouble. They took it quietly."

"Took It Quietly."

Took it quietly, a man-monster stalking through the room where a 14-year-old girl was crouched against the shadows—stalking into the next room to crush the breath and life out of kid sister and brother. Took it quietly, Mrs. Lempke, the good-natured romantic widow from Massachusetts, quivering in the darkness waiting — waiting—waiting. Three horror chambers now quiet. She is the fourth and last.

The man she learned to love . Her mail-order Romeo, who carried her off from her sister's home in Massachusetts with a promise of marriage around the corner. A marriage with death in a bridal chamber of horrors.

"Slaughter House Harry."

"Slaughter House Harry" will tell you it was no trouble.

"I motored with Mrs. Lempke from Northboro, Mass., to Uniontown, Pa., where I left her overnight and met her next day with Mrs. Eicher and the kids at Fairmont about 25 miles from here then I took them all over to the garage to kill them. I got them there in the afternoon of August 1 and killed them that evening.

"Then I stayed with the bodies until it was late and buried them in the trench."

Mrs. Lempke and Mrs. Eicher had some property and money. On August 15 after Pierson had audaciously gone to the house of Mrs. Eicher in Park Ridge to strip it, he was picked up by police and $2,000 was found on his person.

Don't Believe Story

But Detective Southern doesn't believe it was the money.

"He is a killer," he said. "Taking a human life is no more to him than a hound dog killing a squirrel."

"Why did you do it?" Pierson was asked.

"I don't want to talk about that," was all he would say.

"You know you are going to hang," said Chief Duckworth.

"I bet you're afraid to go to a hanging," Pierson answered.

A special term of court for the arraignment of Pierson on a murder charge was being considered. Judge John C. Southern before whom Pierson will eventually appear was due to return from a camping trip some time this week.

Although Mrs. Louella Powers, wife of Pierson, and her sister were released from custody and exonerated from any connection with the murder, Police Chief Duckworth visited the Pierson house twice within twelve hours to question her.

To Continue Search

The house was searched for effects of Pierson and plans were being considered to search the recently built sewer trench around the house.

Mrs. Powers, a heavy-set, slow-witted woman of forty odd years, drove one newspaperman away from her house with a gun.

In an interview with International News Service she insisted she did not know anything about her husband's affairs, either business or romantic.

She told how she had supplied the money with which Pierson built his murder garage but said she had never visited it.

"He has only given me twelve dollars in the past three months but if I see fit to give him money and let him work around the house I don't see that it is anybody's business," she said.

"I know lots of men who sit around the house when their wife has money although I haven't much, only what I get from my grocery store."

Mrs. Powers said she didn't know anything much about Pierson's early life. "And I don't have to tell all I know." She declared.

"Harry was born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, forty two years ago. My aunt married his uncle. That makes us second cousins. We knew each other since kids. We were just loving kids all our lives. We were married June 1, 1927, before that he used to come from the West to visit me.

"I don't know what he used to do, except he worked on his farm and once sold vacuum sweepers. What did he talk about? He talked of good things to eat and how he loved me."

Although a local insurance agent declared that Pierson recently tried to get his wife insured without a physical examination, Mrs. Powers denied he had ever talked insurance with her.

However, his sister-in-law interrupted to say that Pierson wanted her to get out insurance but she said she didn't want it. She added that her brother-in-law studied architecture or something once in Kansas City.

Mrs. Powers was asked if she believed her husband killed five persons.

"He said he done it, didn't he?" she said.

"Would you give him money for his defence if he asks you?"

"I haven't much money," she replied.

"Will you be a witness for the defense if you are requested by your husband?"

"What good will that do, I don't know nothing about him," said Mrs. Powers.

Seek Bureau Owners

DETROIT, Aug. 31—Dr. Albert B. Plater and his wife, Olga, reputed sponsors of the Matrimonial Bureau through which Harry F. Powers, alleged Clarksburg multi-murderer, met his victims, were sought by police here today. They are wanted for questioning, according to prosecutor Harry S. Toy.

Plainclothesmen maintained surveillance over the platers' spacious home in fashionable Grosse Pointe all day yesterday and today awaiting return of the couple, it became known today.

Indicating a "Mail-Order Romance" probe, Postmaster Charles C. Kellogg said he would confer with Federal post office inspectors this afternoon.

According to Kellogg the society published a monthly bulletin advertising a $1,000 bond "in a local bank" to guarantee against disappointment to its members.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Edith Simpson, 38-year-old divorcee and believed to have been intended as one of Powers' next victims, had fled the city, completely shaken, friends said. Mrs. Simpson, according to her own statements, had planned to marry Powers in September.

Plan Funerals

PARK RIDGE, Ill., Aug. 31.—This Chicago suberb today laid plans for the funeral of Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children, victims of the mail order lover and murderer, Harry F. Powers.

Mrs. Sarah Jennie Larson, aunt of Mrs. Eicher, was located in La-Jolla, Calif. She is to be asked to consent to the cremation of the widow's and children's bodies.

The Rev. Walter D. Spangler of St. Luke's English Lutheran church, where the children attended Sunday school, will conduct the services, probably next Sunday. A special memorial service will be held by play-mates of the children.

A police vigil was maintained at the Eicher home where hundreds of curious come on foot and by automobile daily.

A letter from Powers in which he sought to ingratiate himself with Greathe, 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Eicher, was found at the home dated May 1.

"I just know that you are a sweet and darling little girl, and I love you, dear," Powers wrote. "I would be very proud to have you as my own girl. Would you like to have me as your daddy? You could then have ever so many lovely things, and we would have lots of fun together, wouldn't we, dear?"

May Be Sixth Victim.

UXBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 31.—Search for clues for a possible sixth victim of Harry F. Powers, confessed "Bluebeard," centered here today. The fact that Powers while courting one of his victims, Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lamke, was seen to carry bundles and appeared interested in a hole for a tank near the hotel where he was a guest caused authorities to leave no stone unturned.

Interest also centered on two letters supposedly from Mrs. Lemke, penned in Uniontown, Penna., and in Chicago. One handwriting expert said the letters were in Mrs. Lemke's handwriting.

The Uniontown letter bore no date. It spoke of the writer's unhappy marriage adventure. "We have completely broken up," it said. "We had a disagreement but I guess it was my fault."

The letter told of placing a note in an automobile and walking away, enroute to Chicago to obtain a place as companion of a woman.

The second letter, like the first signed "Dorothy," was written in Chicago on August 18th. It spoke of a projected voyage to China and Japan as companion of the Chicago woman (unnamed) and added "I am glad now that I did not get married as I would have missed all this. I don't think I ever will marry."

This year's Thanksgiving proclamation should be a dandy. More than the usual number of countries are worse off than we are.

Relief Measures Being Considered

Gathering Of Prominent Citizens Discusses Plans For Winter

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 31.—A group of the prominent persons in the community held a meeting last week for the purpose of discussing and planning of relief measures for the winter months. The meeting was called by Burgess Judd C. Turner who will head the committee. The business industrial, and professional people of the community were represented.

The committee will study every phase of the unemployment relief problem and will aid all local welfare organizations. Burgess Turner was given authority to select an advisory committee and various subcommittees as the need arises. Various economical problems were discussed at the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting, stated Burgess Turner, was to consider relief measures and to form an organization that will function properly when the state or national government makes an appeal for aid in relief work this winter. Everyone present participated in the discussion and expressed their willingness to work on committees. The committee may solicit the aid of the various service clubs in this work if necessary. They may aid in gathering and storing an over supply of food stuffs that will be used during the winter. It was suggested that the unemployed women may aid in canning the various foodstuffs. Information on the preservation of fruit and vegetables will be derived from government bulletins which will be distributed soon. An educational campaign may be conducted along these lines.

The public is urged to patronize home industries in order to keep the money in this community. This new committee will cooperate with the already existing welfare agencies. The suggestion for this organization was made by County Poor Director, M. B. Hogue who stated that the situation may become critical this winter and some central organization will be necessary. Meyer Avenue Job Done, Hoskins Says

Harry Hoskins, assistant to Municipal Engineer Frank Miller today stated that paving of Meyer avenue has been completed and that employes of Olsen Construction company Saturday poured tar between the curb and cement in Fairmont avenue. Hoskins reported that excavation for the curb in Ray street is proceeding. Rock has been struck, he declared.

COUNCILMAN TRESER HAS 'WORRIED LOOK'

Councilman Stanley Treser today appeared at his desk, somewhat forlorn in appearance and having the appearance of having passed the night in worried slumber.

It seems as though someone placed a rock on which was painted "1317" on his porch some time last night and when he went on the porch he stumbled over the object.

He picked it up, took it into his house and seeing the numbers was mystified. Today he brought the stone with the painted numerals to city hall.

Refuse Appeal In Robber Case

Court Refuses To Set Sentence Aside And Refuses New Trial Plea

OTHER DECISIONS OF COUNTY COURT

In an opinion handed down today by Judge James A. Chambers the appeal of Francis Desmond, John Saunders, alias John Sankert, and Samuel Rinola, in which they asked that the sentence of the court be set aside, was refused and a new trial also refused.

The three men were convicted of the robbery of the Roux store in New Wilmington some time ago. Sentence on each of them was from three years and six months to 10 years in the penitentiary. They argued in their appeal that the sentence was not in conformity with the act covering such crimes, but the court has ruled that the sentence was warranted. Unless they appeal to the superior court they will be taken away shortly to start their sentences.

Other Opinions

In the case of the Max Ludwig Company against the H. M. Frew Company asking for judgment non obstante veredictor, or in other words, judgment in spite of the verdict rendered, the court overruled the motion. This case arose out of a suit for money due the Frew Company for decorating a house owned by Mr. Ludwig. The jury found for the Frew Company and the appeal followed.

In the motion of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to strike off the statement of claim of Willard M. Tribby Jr. the court set September 14th as the day to hear evidence in the case.

Arthur Oberlightner was remanded back to jail after a hearing before Judge Chambers this morning over his failure to pay his wife four dollars a week. He has been in jail a month because he had failed to comply with the court order. It developed during the hearing that he had made some payments of the court order, but had paid the amounts in pennies.

Gutzon Borglum states that no art of consequence has been produced in Europe or America in the last thirty years. In this, self-abnegation wins quite a victory.—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

Two Injured In Auto Accidents

Eleven Autos Damaged In Week End Mishaps In City

NONE OF CRASHES IS VERY SERIOUS

Two persons were injured, 11 automobiles were damaged and numerous drivers and their passengers escaped unhurt in the week-end motor mishaps within the city limits.

Mrs. R. Price, New York City, a passenger in a car which figured in a minor accident on the North Hill Saturday evening was slightly hurt and shaken.

Doris Shingledecker, a child from Hillsville, received minor hurts when struck by a car downtown Saturday evening.

Drivers and passengers of two automobiles remained unhurt in a collision on the North street bridge corner of Croton avenue shortly before noon Sunday.

Peter Macaluso, Edenburg, R. D. 2, was driving south on Croton and Kenneth Kauffman, Volant, R. D. 3, was driving off the bridge when their machines collided, according to police reports. Both machines were damaged. Joe and Tony Lucas were passengers in the Kauffman car.

Two automobiles were damaged when a coupe, driven by Louis J. Edelman, Ellwood City, skidded on East Washington street, near Logan, at noon Sunday, and struck a parked car belonging to Lee Lindsey, McKeesport, according to a report made to police by Edelman.

Little Doris Shingledecker, Hillsville, was slightly injured early Saturday evening when she was struck by an automobile driven by Frances C. Klein, 826 Warrington avenue after running into the path of the machine on Croton avenue, near Washington, according to the driver who reported the accident to police.

Two cars were damaged Saturday morning when a sedan driven by Ernest C. Byerly, Slippery Rock, R. D. 4, sideswiped a car driven by Mrs. R. J. Davis, 314 Sheridan avenue, at Cochran alley and East North street, according to police reports. Byerly reported to police he was proceeding south on the alley but due to many parked cars on East North street, he said he was unable to notice the Davis car which was coming east on that street.

Mrs. R. Price, New York City, was slightly bruised and shaken when an automobile of C. W. Jones, 39½ North Mercer street in which she was a passenger, was struck by a truck at Highland and Laurel avenues early Saturday evening.

The sedan of Quincy A. McBride, 220 Hazelcroft avenue, was damaged Friday evening, when the top of the machine struck a projection sign on a pole near the Thaddeus Stevens school on East Washington street. The sign, five feet from the ground came in contact with the top of the machine.

A coupe driven by Mrs. Sarah Mininck, 107 Crawford avenue, was damaged Saturday evening when it collided with another machine at Oak and Spruce streets. The other car was driven by William Mattis, 111 South Scott, who reported to police that it was also damaged.

An automobile driven by Morris Dunkerly, 1225 Randolph street, was damaged Saturday evening when it was struck by another machine at Jefferson and South streets, according to the driver's report to police. Dunkerly was driving north on Jefferson, the other machine was proceeding east on South. No one was injured.

E. Irwin, 851 Arlington avenue, reported to police that his parked automobile was damaged Saturday evening when struck by a machine, Pennsylvania license No. EV103. The latter car did not stop after the damage had been done in front of the Irwin home, according to a report to police.

Holdup Here Nets Quartet Small Sum

Four young negroes who took the trouble to point a gun at Francisco Grieco, R. D. 2, Harbor Bridge, while he was walking down the Erie railroad tracks, near West Falls street, at about 3:30 a. m. Sunday found to their surprise that their victim had only 75 cents. The bandits took the change and Grieco's driver's license.

A short time after the holdup Grieco reported to Officer Flinner on the public square. Police scoured the neighborhood but could not find a trace of the robbers.

Large Proportion Of Single Women In State

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—If you're past fifteen, blonde or brunette, and looking for a husband, better stay away from Pennsylvania!

Because, according to figures made public by the Census Bureau today, single ladies are by far more numerous and married women more scarce, in relation to female population, in Pennsylvania than in the average state of the country.

Of the female population in the entire nation fifteen years of age and more, 61.1 per cent were married and 26.4 per cent were single when the 1930 census was taken. Of such women in the Keystone State, on the other hand, only 59.6 per cent were married while 28.9 per cent still called themselves "Miss."

Only eight states reported a greater prevalence of single women and twelve a smaller prevalence of married women than did Pennsylvania, according to the Census Bureau data.

Destruction Of Ragweed Advocated

Tortures of Hay Fever Lessened By Group Planning

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

It is strange that the thousands of people who suffer torture during the hay fever season do not demand of the public health authorities destruction of the ragweed during July and early August before it begins to cause trouble.

This could be done. The plant is easily recognized and organized groups of cutters could raze most of the growth in any given territory. The procedure would not injure any other crops because ragweed grows mostly in uncultivated ground, along fences and railroad tracks. The plants are always high enough by late July to be easily cut, and if cut six inches or a foot from the ground all the pollen-bearing portion is removed. Burning the tops in a kerosene fire near the place of cutting would obviate any hauling away and effectively destroy the trouble-making element.

Such a campaign organized so as to include large portions of territory could be controlled by the state boards of health with the co-operation of the local—city and county—health units. The cost might be considerable, but when the staggering economic loss entailed by hay fever is computed it would not seem great. Certainly as many as a million people are afflicted in the United States annually, and many of these are literally compelled to take enforced vacations, no matter what financial loss is involved. Besides this, count the inefficiency of all the victims at their work during the season and you have a bill of costs sufficient to justify a considerable outlay of effort and money.

The only attempt of this kind of which I know was that conducted in the New Orleans district several years ago. It was said to have resulted in considerable relief.

Even some privately organized effort by the hay fever patients of a community might be worth trying. I have seen people suffering the tortures of the damned from hay fever and asthma in their own homes when the vacant lots within a few yards were rank with ragweed. I have played golf with companions whose eyes and noses were dripping during the process and the whole border of their club grounds boasted a fringe of the offending plants.

In view of the fact that so little has been done in this direction, it might be worth trying.

Sent Fish Home To Prove Story

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31.—Here is another fish story—one in which the fish got away, but in an unusual manner that caused the police riot squad to call at a Kansas City restaurant.

Frank Martino caught the fish while on a trip to Canada, he informed the police, and the catch was so large he was afraid to tell about it without having the fish to prove it.

He shipped the 22-pound catch to his restaurant here to have it mounted, but neglected to tell his partner, Charles Palerno, what to do with it.

When Martino reached home he rushed to his place of business and inquired:

"Did my fish arrive?"

"It certainly did," Palermo replied, "and I saved a nice big piece for you."

A few minutes later excited spectators called in the riot squad because Martino's sense of humor was away from home.

Hawaiians Thrive As Volcanoes Erupt

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—There is one place on earth where volcanoes are welcomed.

In Hawaii, the Kilauea or Mauna Loa, two active volcanoes bring prosperity to the natives, because a large number of visitors are attracted when these volcanoes erupt. It is said that these are probably the only volcanoes that can be visited with reasonably safety.

Dr. T. A. Jaggar, volcanologist of the geological survey stationed in the Hawaii National Park, says the volcanoes are due to erupt in the near future, and bases his prediction on the fact that in recent months earthquakes were experienced in Tokio, Japan and the volcanoes Yakegataka, Mount Asama Iogatake, and Mount Hachido were in eruption recently.

He says Hawaii is on the same volcanic rift as these Japanese features, and an outburst is expected daily.

SHENANGO POTTERY WINS SECOND HALF TITLE

SHENANGO POTTERY NINE, EASY VICTOR

Wallops Scarazzos 10-3 Saturday To Capture Title Of Second Half

3,000 FANS SEE LOPSIDED GAME

P. McCullough Holds Scarazzo Team In Check Throughout Contest

Shenango Pottery and the Universal Sanitary aggregations will battle it out for the Lawrence County League title. The Shenango team defeated the Scarazzos, 10-3, on Saturday afternoon before 3,000 fans at Centennial field to capture the second half title of the circuit.

The Pottery clan hit the pill with regularity. Starting off with two runs in the opening when S. McCullough drew a base on balls and Russo hit the ball way over the left field fence, the Shenango team came right back in the second inning to bombard the offerings of Coen all over the lot for six runs. After much damage had been done Alec Black, manager of the Scarazzo team, decided it was about time to stop the fun and sent in Stauffer, former big leaguer, to relieve Coen.

First Time of Year

"Jewie" Coen, rated one of the best hurlers ever turned out in this city, was knocked out of the box for the first time this season. In that disastrous second the Shenango team hit safely seven times and scored six runs. One error was chalked against the losing nine in this frame.

In the fifth the Pottery boys crossed the plate for one more run, and again in the eighth for their final run. The Scarazzo boys tallied once in the opening frame when Orlando hit the ball to the left field fence. The hit was good for three bases. Orlando scored on McCullough's wild pitch. In the fifth and eighth innings the Scarazzo's bunched enough hits to score a total of two more runs for a grand total of three for the day.

Play Good Ball

The Shenango Pottery team played good ball behind the effective pitching of Paul McCullough, who yielded nine scattered blows. Only one error was chalked against the second half champs. Jewie Coen was touched for nine hits in 2 and 2-3 innings. Stauffer quelled the Shenango team, but the damage had already been done. Stauffer was hit five times.

Russo's homer over the left field wall provided one of the thrills of the afternoon. George Byak's one-handed catch in the third also was spectatcular. Lefty Maslyk made a pretty catch in the third in right field. For the Shenango team the hitting of Glasser, Maslyk and Fruitt featured, while Mike Orlando was the outstanding sticker for the losers, getting three hits.

By virtue of the win the Shenango team wins the second half title and will meet the Universal Sanitary team, first half season champs, for the title of Lawrence county. New Castle's little world's series will likely start next Saturday.

Six Bouts At Bowl Tonight

McGann Meets Powers And Couette Opposes Gruver In Six Round Tilts

DONNELLI, JENNINGS ALSO ON CALENDAR

What appears to be the most imposing fistic calendar that has been arranged recently for local disciples of Biff-and-Bang will be staged at the Castle bowl tonight where 28 rounds of battling is scheduled. The first bout will begin at nine o'clock, daylight savings time. Several knockouts are predicted.

The gladiators scheduled for action are recognized as the cream of the preliminary ranks in Cleveland, Akron and New Castle and with considerable rivalry in existence there shouldn't be a dull moment in any of two encounters.

Here's the card for tonight:

Tonights Card

Jackie McGann, Pittsburgh vs Jackie Powers, Youngstown, 114 pounds, 6 rounds.

Marshall Couette, Cleveland vs Al Gruver, Akron, 128 pounds, 6 rounds.

Bill Donnelli or Merle Gibson, vs Clyde Merriner, Akron, 162 pounds, 4 rounds.

Johnny Banko, New Castle vs Young Terry, Akron, 134 pounds, 4 rounds.

Johnny Jennings, New Castle vs Billy Sullivan, formerly of Youngstown, now of New Castle, 140 pounds, 4 rounds.

Ray Ritchie, New Castle vs Eddie Elridge, Akron, 122 pounds, 4 rounds.

Jackie McGann is a former divisional champion of the amateur ranks and since turning professional has recorded three victories over Mickie Farr of Cleveland. Jackie is directed by Jimmy Dunn and this knowledge is equivalent to stating that Jackie knows his stuff and will put up a real bout.

Powers has fought many of the best flyweights in this section and recently put up a good fight against Frankie Bauman of Paterson, N. J. They clashed in Cleveland. Powers is anxious to fight Willie Davies, Jimmy Thomas and in fact any of the good boys in the 112 pound division.

Donnelli vs Merriner

Every fan in town knows Marshall Couette of Cleveland and Al Gruver of Cleveland and they'll expect pyrotechnics from bell to bell. Their last encounter was a hectic affair and when they step out tonight they're going to try and flash a knockout. This looks like a humdinger of a scrap for 6 rounds.

A few nights ago in Akron Gruver and Zeke Jones fought the main bout and when the fighting was over Gruver was given the decision. Jones is a pretty fair kid and Gruver's victory shows he has improved since his last fight in this city.

During the last few days Homer Gray and Merle Gibson had to be shunted from the card, owing to examinations by the commission physician which left Bill Donnelli, the grinning colored boy standing in the dark. He wore a look of dismay until he was paged early today.

"Get into your tights and be ready to fight Clyde Merriner of Akron tonight" was the instructions that Arch Cumo issued to Donnelli. "You were to fight Gray but he has an infected ear. Gibson is ill and you'll have to strut your stuff and plenty of it."

"That's all right, Mr. Cumo" replied Donelli, grinning from ear to ear. "Just toss me in with that Mr. Merriner boy and I'll slambang every second. Winter is coming, we need coal and I'm here to show the fans that when Bill Donnelli says he will fight the fans can depend upon it."

Johnny Banko, kayo artist managed by Signor Latera, the tall boy from the North Hill will tackle Young Terry of Akron. It is the first time Banko has been billed for months. He is a well liked youngster, likewise Terry and it ought to be a banging affair until someone drops.

Terry Versus Banko

Terry fought Pres Johnson at Akron a few nights ago and got away with the decision. Pres is an old-timer as experience goes and the victory while not wide was sufficient to buoy up Terry's confidence and he'll be out to beat Banko if such is possible tonight.

Johnny Jennings, former bowl ring favorite will attempt a comeback against Billy Joyce alias Sullivan formerly of Youngstown, now a member of the Jimmy Dime stable. They'll weigh 140 pounds. Jennings is rarin' to go. Dime reports that Sullivan is one of the likeliest lookin' prospects he has discovered.

He won the amateur lightweight title in the tournament staged a year ago at Youngstown and having had several weeks instructions from the master of punch he can be expected to display some of the traits that brought Dime 41 knockouts of 44 fights a decade ago.

Eddie Elridge of Akron and Ray Ritchie will hop off in a return bout. Eddie put the dream wallop over on the Canyon street 122 pounder in the last fistic show as the bowl. Since then Ray has been training like a trojan and Bob Latera claims he is in fine shape for tonight's return tilt.

The doors of the bowl will open at 7:45 p. m.

Gehrig Busts Out His 37th Homer; Ties With Ruth

Big Bambino Rather Embarrassed As George Gehrig Threatens Home Run Crown

COLLINS HURLS ONE-HIT GAME

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Babe Ruth has to go out to save his reputation—and his future bankroll.

For a long time Mr. Lou Gehrig has been considered the most valuable player on the Yank team and when he threatens Babe as the home run king those wrinkles in the big hitter's brow are going to look as big as that white streak down to first base. Ruth was plainly worried today after Gehrig hit his homer No. 37 and tied the Bambino for the four-base clouting honors. Lou whacked it as the New Yorkers tunned the Boston Sox 14 to 4. It was Gehrig's third in three successive games.

One Hit Game.

Phidgety Phil Collins' phidgity pitching put the New York Giants on pins and needles and they got so nervous they couldn't hit the apple. The result was only one hit for the New Yorkers and a 3 to 0 win for the Phils in the nightcapper of a twin bill. Hubbell took the opener, 8 to 2, for the McGrawites.

Hallahan and Derringer proved far too much for the Pirates and the Cardinals flopped them twice, 5 to 0 and 4 to 1. Derringer pitched the shutout, giving only six hits and fanning ten. Hallahan struck out 13 and only allowed seven safeties.

Pal Malone took a balloon flight in the eighth inning, the Cincy Reds scoring four runs to defeat the Cubs of Chicago, 4 to 3. Lucas was the winning hurler.

The best the Brooklyn Robins could do was break even with the Boston Braves. Two unearned runs beat Vance, who fanned nine. Boston winning on effors, 3 to 2. Brandt, winning pitcher, gave the Robins only five hits. Frank O'Doul punched his third straight single into center field to score the run that won the vesper for Brooklyn, 4 to 3.

Senators Beat Macks.

Al Crowder scored a 5 to 1 victory for Washington over the Athletics, who used a secondary battery. The A's are still almost 16 games ahead of the Senators.

Six hits, including a home run and two doubles, by Goose Goslin featured the St. Louis Browns' double-crushing of the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 3 and 6 to 3. Stewart and Coffman were the successful moundsmen.

The White Sox of Chicago played bad ball but the Tigers of Detroit played worse and the pale hose were forced to win, 10 to 8. Chicago's four pitchers yielded 12 walks and the Sox made eight errors. A double by Appling and singles by Jeffries and Grove finally settled the thing after it had dragged into twelve innings.

Bessemer Starts Pipeline Extension

Employment Is Given Quite A Number Of Unemployed Residents Of Place

Work of excavating the ditch for the half mile water line extension for the water system of the Borough of Bessemer has been started as a result of the arrival of the pipe and other materials.

The extension takes in Walnut and Roosevelt streets and will furnish protection against fire to the high school building and other property in that vicinity. The work will take several weeks and is helping the unemployment situation there to some extent.

Street Commissioner Weaver of Bessemer is employing the labor and in charge of the actual construction work, while Civil Engineer C. H. Milholland of New Castle is supervising the work.

Marcellas Top Young Yankees

Marcella mushball team captured its 35th victory of the year at Etna Spring park when it defeated the Young Yankees. The score was 15 to 4.

The game was played as a feature of the Sons of Italy picnic held yesterday. Ted Turco with three home runs and Tip Richards featured for the Marcellas while Mash, Pezzone and Copple were the best for the losers.

Campolo-Sekyra Battle Tonight

Brooklyn Will See Four Leading Heavyweight Contenders Tonight And Tuesday

RETZLAFF-SCHAAF FIGHT IS TUESDAY

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Weather permitting, four candidates for the heavyweight championship will throw leather here tonight and tomorrow evening. Originally scheduled for last week, the bouts were postponed when the promoters were blinded by the sun while scanning the heavens for alleged rain clouds that never burst.

The quartet consists of Ernie Schaaf, Victorio Campolo, Charles Retzlaff and Steve Hamas. At Ebbets field tonight in a scheduled 12-rounder, the sweet singing Schaaf will carry the air and Campolo likely will take it. In a preliminary, Hama will sound a few A's at the expense of one Mike DeSanto, imported from Italy to make a Roman holiday for the former Penn State star.

Retzlaff-Sekyra

Retzlaff, boasting 31 knockouts in 35 starts, takes on Joe Sekyra, veteran trial horse from Dayton, O., in a scheduled ten-rounder at the Queensboro stadium tomorrow night. The intriguing angle here is whether the lanky farmer from Lemnard N. D. will be able to flatten the agile Sekyra, who escaped a knockout at the hands of Max Schmeling. At the time Max had just about reached the rung on the fistic ladder now occupied by Retzlaff.

Thus far Retzlaff has shown practically nothing in the way of a left hand. If Charles is unable to tag the elusive Sekyra with his famous right, he will have to make some use of his port fin to win the decision.

A student of psychology might pick up a few shekels by betting on Campolo to knock out Schaff, for the Gaucho is in a desperate mood. Kept on the shelf due to the grossest mismanagement, and thrust into debt by the machinations of various worthy gentlemen who have had a finger in his pie, the Argentine string bean knows that a victory over Schaaf will chase the wolf away from the door and start him on the royal road to fame and fortune traversed in such spectacular fashion by his illustrious fellow-countryman, dead pan Luis Firpo.

But while a psychologist might fancy Campolo's chances tonight, students of boxing have no recourse but to pick Schaaf. The former sailor is as tough as they come, is a fair defensive boxer and packs a wallop dangerous enough to overcome the handicap of a paucity of ring brains.

There's talk of a moratorium on mortgages, but what's the use when most people have already declared one?—The Harrisburg Telegraph.

Amateur Golfers Commence Battle For Title Today

Field Of 142 Golfers Will Battle Over Chicago Course For Jones' Title

TEN MEN GIVEN CHANCE TO WIN

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.— With a galaxy of 142 golf stars competing for the title relinquished by Bobby Jones, the perennial winner, the thirty fifth annual conflict for the amateur golf championship of the United States was begun today at the Beverly Country Club, one of the most difficult courses in the country. The tournament will last all week.

Experts fought shy of making a prediction as regards the probable winner. The United States Golf Association, however, gave a bit of assistance in selecting favorites by issuing a list of ten players who will be seeded in the draw for match play, provided they succeed in qualifying in the 36 hole round today and tomorrow.

The ten golfers whom the U. S. G. A. figure as possible successors to Jones are: Harrison ("Jimmy") Johnston, 1929 champion; Eugene V. Homans, runner-up last year; T. Phillip Perkins, former British amateur champion; Johnny Goodman, Charles Seaver, Francis Ouimet, who was victorious in the amateur in 1914; Maurice McCarthy; George Voigt, Dr. O. F. Willing and George T. Dunlap.

Tourney Opens Today

The first pair to smack their drives down the fairway will be Jack Westland of Chicago and Ellsworth H. Augustus, of Willoughby, Ohio. The first eighteen holes of the qualifying round will be played today, and the other eighteen holes tomorrow. The 32 low medal scorers for the 36 holes will enter the match play which begin Wednesday.

On Wednesday morning 18 holes of match play will be staged and eighteen more in the afternoon. The quarter finals Thursday will be 36 holes, as will the semi-finals Friday and the title match on Saturday.

The original field of 163 was cut down by eleven withdrawals, including Dexter Cummings, Lake Forest, Ill.; John and Alaric De Forest of England; Jesse Guilford, Auburndale, Mass., the national champion in 1921; J. Wood Platt, Chestnut Hill, Pa.; James Bush, Dayton, O., F. D. Ross, Hartford, Conn.; Emory Stratton and Clark Hedder, West Newton, Mass.; Lewis Bredin, Detroit, Mich., and Lee Chase, Buffalo, N. Y.

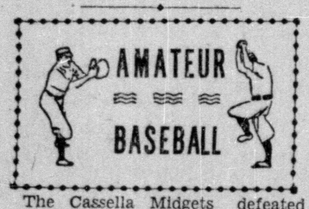
DAVIS WINS IN FIELD CLUB EVENT

A. H. Davis was the winners of the Individual Sweepstake full handicap event staged at the New Castle Field club Saturday. The other prize winner of the event was A. B. Street.

Considerable interest was shown in the foursome in which Captain V. Arthur Smith, the club professional, and Roy F. Preston were paired with Gene and Glenn. They went twelve holes with Gene as the partner of Preston and Glenn as the partner of Captain Smith.

The scores made in the sweepstake by the winners was as follows:

	G	H	N
A. H. Davis	101	22	79
A. B. Street	97	14	83



The Cassella Midgets defeated the Division street Stars 21 to 20 in a baseball game played Saturday morning at the B. & O. Field. The game was featured by a lot of heavy hitting on the part of both teams.

Magician Fails In Escape Trick

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 31—"Huber the Great" a magician has a swell trick. He gets out of a box nailed shut by a spectator—that is he gets out provided both he and the box are not nailed.

Last night a brawny member of the audience nailed Huber in. The audience waited breathlessly. Seven minutes passed and Huber did not emerge.

Then the box was opened and Huber lay unconscious from a wound in the head where a nail cut him.

So they tried it again and presto Huber emerged O. K.

A police-bandit battle in New York killed six persons and wounded 12, a total which, if properly divided, would provide a casualty list for three South American revolutions.—The Dayton Daily News.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Industrial Stocks Drop Off Few Points

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Industrial stocks dropped off a point or two at the beginning of the new week.

American Can, which closed on Saturday at 94⅞, appeared on the tape at 92 in the first sale of the new week. American Telephone and Telegraph lost about 1½ points and losses of a point or less were well sprinkled throughout the list. General Electric, Dupont, Westinghouse and other well known stocks, fell off about a point in the average. The Oils and Coppers were fractionally lower, while the low-priced Amusement stocks reached slightly higher price levels.

With new exceptions prices quoted at the opening were the lowest of the day, and slight recoveries were promptly recorded in the Steel and Manufacturing stocks. American Can moved ahead to 93½. Warner Brothers common recorded a new high on the move at 10⅛, while the preferred move up about 2 points. Interest in the market and activity in the principal stocks dwindled as the forenoon wore on. Near the noon period the whole list was inclined to sag off unsteadily in dull and narrow trading.

The Commodity markets were also unsteady in the early trading, with Cotton down a dollar a bale and grain prices fractionally lower. Railroad and Industrial bonds were fairly steady, and call money unchanged at 1½ per cent.

Greyhound Bus Is Parked Here

Greyhound bus which was stripped of its Pennsylvania license plates and ordered off the highway is parked on the P. & L. E. lot on the east side. It can only be moved by special permit from the state highway department, motor vehicle division, Harrisburg, it is reported.

The state highway patrol, stationed here, stopped the bus recently because it was over-width. Passengers took streets cars and other means to reach their destinations.

Finish Your Swing With Hands High Above Head, Grove

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

Copyright, 1931, by Central Press Association, Inc.

NUMBER 65

Learn to face the hole at the finish of the swing.

See that the right shoulder comes under the chin and on out in the direction of the hole. Never take the shoulder around, see that it goes under the head and on up.

You have noticed many golfers finish with the shoulder on the same plane as on the backswing. This sweeps the ball off the tee and throws the clubhead out of control.

The wrists do not get a chance to work if the shoulder comes around the shoulder must "hit" the ball the same time as the hands and clubhead.

The best of professionals look the same at the finish of their stroke as on the backswing. That is to say, the action is transformed from right to left and the right arm is in the same position at the finish as the left arm was on the backswing.

Try to finish with the hands high above the head. This sends the club out on the same line as the ball.

The straight ball denotes that the clubhead has gone on out ofter the ball.

The slightest variation cuts or spins the ball to the left. Slow up the swing until you have perfected this outward swing. It is easy to speed up but hard to slow up.

But when Uncle Sam loaned money to farmers, he didn't declare a moratorium to save them.

A chronic ailment is one the doctor has monkeyed with so long that he doesn't give a darn about it.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

Now that the Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees have revived an old custom by matching the Sox's Mr. Carl Reynolds with the Yankee's Mr. Ben Chapman in a speed test (to the mutual glory of the foresaid Yankees and the previously mentioned Mr. Chapman) it might be a good thing if ball clubs in general revived the old track and field games.

There was a time when the baseball addict took these auxiliary diamond spectacles for granted just as he did the fact that the bag of peanuts he purchased for a nickel would contain an assortment of elderly, quite tasteless goobers.

But time change. The Chapman-Reynolds 100-yard dash was the first sport test, outside of a ball game, between employes or rival nines in a long time.

* * *

When baseball became big business and salaries zoomed, the magnates abandoned the track and field games largely because they dared not risk costly muscles and expensive wrists and ankles suffering strain or pain in contests that had no bearing whatever on the outcome of the day's match or the season's pennant chase.

Another reason baseball track and field games fell into disfavor was the arrival of the lively ball and the home run king. Fans were impatient for the fireworks to begin and cared little for the fungohitting contests, the baseball throw tests and the base circling speed matches, as these events were not half so thrilling as the thunder of home runs during the actual game.

* * *

Now, however, with both big league and many minor circuit flags virtually decided, the fans who still trek to the ball yards to view contests that have no bearing on the championships might well be given a break and an extra free show.

Why not revive the track and field game if just for the rest of this season?

Let Joe Cronin of the Senators, Charley Gehringer of the Tigers, Goose Goslin of the Browns, Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs, Paul Waner of the Pirates and other fleet-footed base runners have a crack at Chapman's 100-yard record.

Let Babe Ruth and other heavy artillery boys have a crack at old Ed Walsh's fungo hitting mark —419 feet and a half-inch, set in 1911, according to the records.

And why not see if any of the present-day outfielders can beat Sheldon Lejeune's magnificent throw of 426 feet nine and one-half inches, back in 1910.

And somewhere in the musty archives are the speed-ball records of Walter Johnson. Is Lefty Grove's hot one faster than Johnson's was?

* * *

While all these questions having no bearing on settling the depression or salvaging Europe's financial problems, the answer would be good entertainment for the sport fans between now and the first kickoffs of the football season.

* * *

With the A's 14 games, five city blocks and a couple of weeks ahead of the rest of the league, their star catcher must rest, due to a nervous breakdown. That isn't a breakdown —it's boredom.

St. Vitus Frolic At Koppel Success

Over 1,600 Persons Attend Entertainment—Elephant Club Members Guests

The Knights of St. Vitus Frolic held yesterday at Buttermilk Falls, Koppel, Pa., turned out to be a huge success despite the morning downpour. Early in the morning cars loaded with Knights and their families began to come to the park and continued until late afternoon. The crowd as estimated by a park official was placed at over 1600 persons.

The Elephant Club, guests of the Knights for the day defeated the Knights of St. Vitus in a fast and furious game of mushball, the score being 7 to 5. The married Knights defeated the single ones to the tune of 17 to 10. The single Knights are protesting the game on account of poor umpiring on the part of Mr. Frank Mack who is also married.

The afternoon was filled with excitement during the races, and other games put on by the Knights and the Elephants Club. The feature was a yelling contest open to all women and was won by Miss Pagley, rear, Lutton street for being able to yell louder than any other women in the contest.

Ralph Monico and the two Copple brothers gave a concert that was enjoyed by everybody. They mixed popular numbers with classical ones, receiving applause at each number.

The success of the transportation was due to the efficient way it was handled by Charles DiCarbo.

F. Marcariella and Alex Natale were in charge of refreshments.

The the president, Vitus Conti and general chairman E. F. Strizzi goes the credit for this successful frolic.

Nationalization Of Church Property In Spain Seems Likely

Church Property In Spain Will Total In Neghborhood Of $100,000,000

(International News Service)

MADRID, Aug. 31.—Adoption by the Republican National Cortes of Article XV of the constitution providing for nationalization of church property valued at more than $100,000,000 seemed a distinct possibility here today.

Although Spain has remained, despite the recent revolution predominantly Catholic, resentment against the clergy for political activities has continued to grow.

Spain has more than 5,000 monasteries and convents housing 10,000 monks and 38,000 nuns, who would be disposed should the article be adopted.

Beatty Quits As Game Supervisor

Herbert L. Beatty, Game Supervisor In Nine Northwest Counties, Resigns

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—Charles Stone, executive secretary of the State Game commission, today announced the resignation of Herbert L. Beatty, of Franklin, as district game supervisor for nine northwest counties.

Business interests in Venango county which demanded a large share of the supervisor's time compelled the board to request Beatty's resignation, Sone said. Under the rules of the commission, supervisors are required to devote all their time to the work in their districts, the board secretary declared.

Venango, Erie, Crawford, Warren, Forest, Clarion, Mercer, Butler and Lawrence counties were supervised by Beatty. Stone accepted his resignation on behalf of the board. No successor has yet been appointed.

Oldest Living Native U. S. Mother Is Sought

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Amateur radio operators throughout the United States and its territories and possessions have enlisted their services in an effort to find the oldest living native mother, who will be honored on Mother's day during the George Washington bi-centennial celebration next year.

It was emphasized that a woman of the original racial strain that founded the United States would be most appropriate in celebrating Washington's deference to his mother.

On next mother's day, the second Sunday in May, 1932, the woman selected as the oldest living mother will be the guest of the natioin here and the central figure in a ceremony commemorative of George Washington's devotion to his mother.

HAT STYLES AID INDUSTRY

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 31—There are some bright spots in the industrial situation in Connecticut, according to Joseph Tone, state labor commissioner. Norwalk and Danbury find that the demand for felt hats for women is sending orders to their hat factories. The clock industry in Winsted and Thomaston is flourishing, and especially in Winsted the largest plant is calling in its hands to face a busy winter. New London's ship-building industry has taken a sudden spurt due to an order to build the world's largest submarine, a job that will last three years.

Croton Concert Pleases Crowd

Last Concert Of The Summer Season Attracts Throng As Artists Present Program

The auditorium of the Croton avenue Methodist church was not large enough Sunday evening to hold the crowd that assembled for the last sacred concert of the summer season, which series have been under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Bernard, choir director and Miss Violet Shuler, organist.

The Sunday evening concert was especially attractive as Samuel Kliachko, noted Russian violinist of New York City was present and gave several cello numbers that were selected with great care and played with extraordinary ability.

Mrs. June Bernard, mezzo soprano, was in exceptionally fine voice and her numbers drew forth many comments of praise; the trumpet numbers presented by the Book-Leyde quartet showed to good advantage the harmony of their voices. Miss Katherine Lewis, a pianist of splendid technique, gave several numbers.

Dr. S. L. Maxwell, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, was in charge of the program.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Down around Clarksburg, W. Va., at the present time, according to Tommy Cunningham, things are happening fast. During the weekend he was down there and the town is seething with excitement over the discovery of the bodies buried by the Love Broker. All night long the crowd maintains a vigil around the jail and the que of people at the morgue stretches for blocks.

Attended a bangup corn roast late Saturday afternoon down at a place called Edgewood between Ellwood City and Beaver Falls. The occasion was the annual gathering of the Lincoln club of Beaver county, one of the oldest marching clubs in the United States.

The last time we saw the outfit together was in Washington, D. C., when Hoover was inaugurated and every lad in the line was soaked to the hide. The corn roast Saturday afternoon was chosen in much better weather and it was a real time.

The Lincoln club goes back to 1880 and in its career has marched at many inaugurations and many political rallies.

The ultimate in thrift on a golf course has been discovered by Bill Woodworth. Not so long ago he picked up a tee which represented a lot of labor to save a cent. Some descendant of the Clan MacDougall or some other plaided clan had found the head of a celluloid tee and the base of a wooden one. Taking a small tack and a piece of string he had tacked the two together and then tied them.

If the owner will see Bill he can get his tee for certainly any soul as thrifty as that ought to get it back without a reward being paid.

The East Washington street bridge looks as though a shell might have struck it amidships. The boys are digging out a lot of dirt, the idea being to fill it up with waterproof cement and fool the Neshannock river.

Years ago when the bridge was built the builders scooped out just enough dirt to give them room for a concrete fill on top and didn't waterproof the sides. The action of the water for years has made it spongy, but when it is finished you'll be able to lock at a bridge that will resist the water.

In case you have forgotten, tomorrow is the second day to register. One of the days is already passed and if you expect to mark an X on a ballot on September 15 you'd better take time out tomorrow or on September 12 and get qualified.

Rev. Robert Shoote At Central Church

Rev. Shoote, and wife, are visiting at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Mary Hutchison, New Wilmington.

KULKIN FARM ROBBED OF TIRES AND WHEELS

Enterprising thieves who were poor mechanics raided the Scotland Lane cattle farm of Jake Kulkin, 428 Boyles avenue, sometime late Saturday night, jacked up a large truck and made away with two rear wheels, tires and a kit of tools.

City and state police were informed of the robbery by Kulkin who said the robbers' loot was valued about $150. In their haste to escape with the wheels and tires the robbers nearly wrecked the machine.

At 90, She Still Sees The Old Days As Best For Girls

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The old days were the best.

Surviving the day when automobile, radios, and the like were unknown, Mrs. Mary Holmes, 90-year old life-long resident of this city, believes the modern girl has lost more than she has gained.

Mrs. Holmes keeps in touch with the modern age from her armchair. She sees the flapper go past her door and has this to say:

"We had a better time in my girlhood. The automobile has taken dignity and romance from life. We were happier in those long-ago days and healthier.

"My husband and I were pioneers. We made the long journey from Ohio to the Illinois plains in a covered wagon. But we had our family and friends and were happy in spite of hardship."

Mrs. Holmes remembers seeing Lincoln and hearing him speak in Columbus, Ohio, when he was going east for his inauguration. Later she met Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, but she says neither were as great as "Honest Abe." Looking backward she recollects:

"Within my ninety years have come the telegraph, telephone, automobile, airplane, short skirts and lipstick."

She doesn't approve of any but the airplane. She believes the airplane is less a menace to civilization than the automobile. She can still read the newspapers (without glasses), and is tremendously interested in Lindbergh, but says:

"That young man and his Anne are going to take just one trip in the air too many. I'll feel a whole lot relieved when they get back from their present journey to Japan."

Her disapproval of the present day, however, Mrs. Holmes tempers with the reminder that she is, after all, only ninety and:

"What does a ninety-year-old girl know about life anyway."

CHROMIUM COVER STOLEN

C. T. Cox, 413 Hillcrest avenue, reported to police Sunday that a chromium tire cover had been stolen from his sedan, which had been parked in the rear of the First Baptist church that morning.

It is true that there is, as Henry Ford says, room for everybody in this world; in fact, that's just what's the matter with the world.—The Springfield Union.
